WE NOMINATE

Marver Hillel Bernstein, a specialist in public administration and government-business relations with broad experience on both the state and federal levels of government, who twice in recent weeks has been singled out for tasks of paramount importance to New Jersey. Last week Supreme Court Chief Justice Joseph Weintraub helped Bernstein, Dean of Princeton University's Woodrow Wilson School, celebrate his 48th birthday by naming him the 11th member of the State Reapportionment Commission — the individual charged with breaking the stalemate between the five Republicans and five Democrats now completely, and bitterly deadlocked in their efforts to define 40 Assembly Districts for this year's Legislative elections.

His elevation to the bogged-down Reapportionment Commission, which must complete its deliberations by March 10th, followed by a matter of days Bernstein's designation as Chairman of the newly created Public and School Employees Grievance Study Commission. The latter body, appointed by Governor Richard J. Hughes, is only now getting started on its significant, highly delicate and time-consuming assignment of finding ways to give public employees a fair shake in the bargaining process with their employers and at the same time forestalling the possibility of crippling strikes in services essential to the well-being of New Jersey's citizenry.

Bernstein's reputation for injecting new ideas into discussions, an attribute which will prove extremely valuable as he works with both state-wide groups, was evidenced in a recent meeting with State Transportation Commissioner David J. Goldberg and other experts. He told Goldberg's roundtable, concerned with financing $100 million worth of highways New Jersey needs but can't afford, that the trouble with the highway department is that it is too full of engineers. Highway officials, according to Bernstein, are too concerned with perfect engineering and never even think of a road's social impact and never try to relate a highway to broad questions of public policy.

A native of Mankato, Minn., Bernstein received his bachelor's and master's degrees from the University of Wisconsin and joined Princeton's Department of Politics in 1947. He has been a Princeton teacher ever since, rising to the rank of full professor in 1958 and three years ago becoming the first Dean of the Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs. In this capacity he has played a major role in shaping graduate programs which are implementing the University's aspirations to develop professional education for public service at levels of excellence comparable to what has been achieved over the years in the nation's best schools of medicine and law.

Bernstein, tapped by The White House as a member of the 1964 Presidential Task Force on Transportation and of the 1966 Presidential Task Force on Manpower for State and Local Government, is a member of the Visiting Committee of the John F. Kennedy School of Government at Harvard and is also deeply interested in educational developments in Israel. He has been a consultant to any number of key agencies, including the U.S. Bureau of the Budget, the Economic Stabilization Agency, the Connecticut Commission on State Government Organization, the State Comptroller of Israel, the Brookings Institution, and the Federal Civil Service Commission.

For bringing to his new areas of responsibility the priceless assets of training, temperament and judgment; for possessing, although a nominal Democrat in politics, what Chief Justice Weintraub terms the scholarly ability to be impartial; for thinking first in terms of policy and then turning to matters of detail; he is TOWN TOPICS' nominee as

THE TAX STORY

Budgets Presented. Taxpayers, resigned to an annual increase in the tax bill, heard the 1967 news this week from Borough and Township.

The direction is "up." In the Borough, Council introduced last Wednesday a budget of $1,560,824 — $265,328 more than a year ago. Next day in the Township, Committee introduced a budget of $1,826,272 up 12.4% over last year.

That taxpayer's lodestone, the $30,000 house, still holds true and steady in the Borough. If you own a house assessed at $30,000 true value, you'll pay $795 under the new budget, compared to $687 this year. The new estimated rate: $5.30 per $100 of assessed valuation.

But in the Township, that $30,000 house has shaky foundations. The Township, as all good taxpayers know, re-evaluated all property last year; in fact, re-evaluation was such a smacking success that the Township has an increase of $18 million in rateables, only $1.2 million of which is brand new.

This means that the $30,000 house you have now may have been only a $25,000 house last year. Last year's $30,000 house may be this year's $37,000 house. Most increases were about 28%, although some lucky householders have reported an increase in re-evaluation of a scant 10% and there may be houses that were even de-valued.

These, if there are any, will be the only ones with a lower tax bill than before, because the Township's total estimated local tax rate is down 55 cents over last year: from $6.05 to $5.50, per 100 of assessed valuation.

In the Borough, the biggest increase in the budget is debt service, chiefly traceable to last fall's $1.6 bond issue, covering various sizeable building projects.

Raises for Borough police, inevitable after last fall's referendum in the Township, bring the Borough budget up by $23,000. The scale follows the same curve as the Township's: an $1,850 raise spread over a two-year period, for every patrolman in the municipality.

Own Any Land? The taxpayers hardest hit in the Township are the ones who own undeveloped land, or who live on, say, 15 acres of land in a two-acre zone. The township estimates that, of the $18 million in rateable increase, about $13 million comes from the reassessment of undeveloped land.

As banker for the recreation department, the Township has set aside $117,000 for recreation, up $19,000 from a year ago. This provides $43,917 for a full 15-week swimming pool season, compared to last year's hoped-for 10-week season, the season that never quite made the high dive.

The Borough will pay $61,500 of this to the Township as its share. Incidentally, the former 30% Borough-81% Township ratio has now shifted to 40-60.

The Township has set aside an additional $73,898 for salaries and wages, including about $24,000 more for those police salaries. All other employees will receive an average raise of 8%.

Funds for the library have gone up by $25,933, for road equipment, $14,270 and for insurance, $8,864.

PROCACCINO NAMED

As Juvenile Officer. Ralph Procaccino, 207 Ewing Street, has been named full-time juvenile officer for the Borough, assigned to the detective bureau.

William H. Walker, Borough Councilman who is Police Commissioner, announced the appointment at Tuesday night's February Council meeting. Officer Procaccino has been a part-time, acting juvenile officer since January 1966.

Councilman Walker and Police Chief Peter J. McCrohan said that the new juvenile office will follow a 8-5 daytime shift, and will be available for other assignments if the Chief needs him.

Mayor Henry S. Patterson told Council he had received a letter from Thomas B. Hartmann, acting board chairman of "Princeton Youth Center, Inc." setting down formally his group's unanimous desire to zero in on the Engineering Building as a youth center.

"I'LL DO IT MYSELF — AND SHE DID:" When Miss Charlotte Spangenberg learned that there would be no official ground-breaking for Princeton University's new $12.5 million physics building, she must have remembered the doughty Little Red Hen, for she did it herself, without pomp and circumstance. "Princeton Youth Center, Inc." formerly "Parents for Youth," offers to provide maintenance and operating costs and a professional supervisory staff. In addition, it proposes to rent out various parts of the building to other groups which might want to use a room here and there and now and then.

The Youth Center likes the Engineering Building because it has a variety of spaces allowing flexible programming. It's close to the library and to the center of things, and would require little or no renovation.

Mayor Patterson said he favored the idea since it allows multiple-use of the building. He also believes that the Borough, as owner, must have final say over who the Center's rental tenants are. He said he hopes the Borough can reach a decision about the building by mid-March.

Turn Here. Vexed pedestrians and motorists continue to wrestle with the new interchange at Chambers-Wiggins-Avalon, and one of them brought her trials to Council Tuesday night.

Mrs. Heidi Hopkins, who lives in "Stanworth," walks up John Street toward Nassau, and she told Council how difficult it is to cross Wiggins and snake through what is now a parking lot, but used to be John Street. She asked for a crosswalk to protect pedestrians from cars.

She pointed out the dangers of the Chambers-Wiggins intersection (a) for people trying to turn from Chambers west to Bayard Lane and finding their vision blocked and (b) for motorists trying to dodge other motorists who use the wrong lanes making various turns into Chambers from Wiggins.

Borough Engineer Thomas Cawley told her things would be better when the top of the road is finally down and street markings can be firmly painted in. He warned her, however, that the crosswalk will probably be at Chambers and not at John.

Mayor Patterson assured her that Council planned to introduce next month an ordinance allowing the Borough to control the height of fences. Then she can see oncoming motorists when she turns left toward Bayard Lane.

No More Big Ones. Administrator Robert E. Mooney said the state had approved the Borough's ordinance banning trucks over five tons on Vaughn Avenue.

Council passed the ordinance vacating the John Street right-of-way in front of the First Baptist Church, passed, subject to Planning Board approval, an ordinance providing two alternate Zoning Board members so one can move in if a member cannot vote due to conflict-of-interest, introduced an ordinance accepting Sturges Way into the street system and another new ordinance legalizing the new traffic light at Wiggins and Witherspoon, this one at the state's request.

Martin Lombardo reminded Council that he had asked in November for an ordinance prohibiting the removal of election posters from trees, and asked why nothing had been done about it.

"It's not important enough," Mayor Patterson said.

Borough attorney Gordon Griffin said the matter was covered by the malicious mischief statutes.

A HOUSE TO LIVE IN

Trouble in Princeton. Princeton's "hidden poor" came out into the open last week for all to see.

Concealed from an affluent community behind a wall of broken plaster and peeling paint, these hidden poor send their children to Princeton schools, earn their living from Princeton employers, buy their groceries at Princeton stores.

But they are invisible to most of the town, and when trouble comes, they feel that the town treats them like stepchildren. That's the way it was in the case that came to light last week in Princeton Township.

Over a period of days in early February, three families — Mr. and Mrs. William Johnson and their three children; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Clack and their five children, and Mrs. Dorothy Still and her two children, moved out of the three-apartment house at 52 Birch Avenue. Only Mrs. Still was able to find quarters in Princeton. The rest have left town.

This house is one of many in both Borough and Township with a long record of neglect. It has been owned, over many years, by many Princeton landlords. The roster of its former owners reads like a who's-who of Princeton's business and professional men. Its present owner is R. J. Lillelund, Cleveland Road, Hopewell.

Code Protects. Under the state's housing code, health officers are authorized to protect tenants when they have trouble persuading landlords to fix broken plumbing, remove rotting window frames so that glass can be installed against the cold, or keep furnaces working properly.

In Princeton Township, the municipal health officer is Mrs. Marcella Farley, an employee of the Board of Health for 14 years and its licensed health officer since 1962. It is Mrs. Farley who makes inspections under the code.

However, the Township Board of Health has authorized her to make inspections only if someone complains to her that the code is being violated. She has not been given authority by the Board to make inspections on her own, nor to conduct regular inspections as a matter of routine.

Many tenants are afraid that if they complain, they will be evicted. If people are living in a putrid and unsanitary house, Mrs. Farley has the authority to remove them so the house can be brought into line. That's one fear.

Fear of Eviction. Another fear is that the landlord himself will toss them out. Living quarters are scarce in Princeton's Negro district and a landlord can always find someone to move into an empty apartment. Few tenants have a lease.

Even so, many tenants in the Birch-Leigh-John-Witherspoon area do complain and in the Township health office, at least, there is quite a dossier on many houses.

Frequently, tenants have white friends who are allies, and that's what happened in the case of 52 Birch. Two women, Mrs. Rowan Boone, 31 Greenhouse Drive, and Mrs. H. W. Kuhn, 74 Woodland Drive, knew two of the tenant families.

Both Mrs. Boone and Mrs. Kuhn have a long record of interest in such cases. Mrs. Boone recalls that, earlier in the history of this same house, she helped tenants in their successful decision to withhold part of their rent money until the landlord fumigated the house to rid it of cockroaches.

In the case of another house and another tenant, Mrs. Kuhn's lawyer once faced down a landlord who was about to evict a tenant who had complained to the health department.

Of 52 Birch, Mrs. Kuhn said: "I've worked in the New York City slums. I never thought I'd see this in Princeton."

"I've been in touch with that house for a long time," said Mrs. Boone. "I've gone over the house and I have a long list of its violations under the code. The people moved out because they felt the landlord simply wouldn't do anything more for them."

Tenants complained during the autumn and early winter months about broken windows, hit-or-miss repairs and lack of heat in cold weather. Mrs. Kuhn conferred with Mrs. Farley about the problem, and Mrs. Farley wrote to Mr. Lillelund late in January.

A few days later, Mr. Lillelund and his representative, Bruce French, Princeton attorney, drew up a lease. Mrs. Boone retained Thomas P. Cook to examine the lease, and he told Mr. Lillelund that it was too one-sided in favor of the landlord, and recommended certain changes in favor of the tenant.

According to Mrs. Boone, the lease called on the tenants themselves to make repairs at their own expense if deterioration had been caused by neglect. The lease did not specify whose neglect.

In addition, Mrs. Boone said, it exempted the landlord from liability in case there were damages or injuries from such things as leaky roofs. The lease kept the tenants on a month-to-month basis and raised the rent from $85 to $91 for each apartment. The tenants decided not to sign.

Whose Fault? Mr. French maintains that "about half" of the violations listed in the letter from Mrs. Farley were traceable to the tenants themselves and he mentions overcrowding, with furniture blocking doorways, and holes punched into walls.

He also states that two of the three tenants owed about $700 in back rent, and that one of the three families who moved last week, took refrigerator and stove although both appliances belonged to the landlord.

Replying on February 8 to Mrs. Farley's letter, Mr. French asked for time for his client to make the needed repairs, and he told the Board of Health that Mr. Lillelund was making efforts to get the tenants out so he could do the repair work.

"Any rigid enforcement of the housing code, in either Borough or Township, would put a lot of tenants out into the street," Mr. French says.

Change of Policy? "It isn't our policy to instigate inspections of houses on our own," explains Dr. William Kleinberg, president of the Township Board of Health. "If we made routine or regular inspections of houses in that area, it would be discriminatory, and we certainly aren't going to inspect every house in town."

Other Township officials believe that a regular, routine inspection may be the only solution; it would get both landlord and tenant off the hook, so to speak, and would restore the housing code to some self-respect as a law that is enforced.

Meantime, PAHR has offered to assist any tenant. Borough or Township, who wants to tell the Board of Health about violations of the code. The number to call is 924-2966.

THIS WAS HOME: Mrs. Robert Clack and her five children, in their apartment at 52 Birch Avenue. The Clacks left home, school and Princeton on Saturday to move in with relatives in Maryland. They are among the three families at 52 Birch who claim the landlord is in violation of the Township housing code. See "Topics of the Town." (Bill Stelterr Photo)

KILLED IN ACTION

In Viet Nam. First Lieutenant Richard D B Shepherd, 25, was killed in combat in Viet Nam on February 6 He was the son of Mrs. Anne B Shepherd of 193 Linden Lane and the late George M. Shepherd.

His mother was notified by an officer from Fort Dix last Wednesday A telegram from the Secretary of the Army followed He was reported to have been aboard an armored personnel carrier patrol car which exploded He had been in Viet Nam with the First Infantry Division since October 1.

Lt Shepherd enlisted in the Army on July 1, 1964 and attended Officer Candidate School at Fort Benning, Ga As an officer at Fort Dix last year, training troops, he became well known for his success in defending accused GI's and on his own initiative studied military law, frequently consulting Trenton lawyers. Therefore, instead of the routine one month of such duty, the Army extended his assignment to six months

A native of New Haven, Conn. Lt. Shepherd came to Princeton during his school years He was a graduate of Princeton Country Day School and the Loomis School in Connecticut A National Merit semi-finalist, he studied at both Yale and Columbia Universities His major fields in college were linguistics and medieval English. He had hoped to teach Chaucer in college

He was an ardent sailor winning a number of trophies in sailboat competition off the Madison, Conn. shore where the family has a summer home

His mother was for 15 years head of the English department of Miss Fine's School and is now an English teacher and senior advisor at Princeton Day School. Also surviving is his maternal grandmother, Mrs Dewitt Barlow of Plainfield.

A memorial service was held Sunday in the chapel of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian Church in Plainfield. The Rev. Dr. Charles Mead and the Rev. William Nye, the deceased's Yale roommate, officiated A delegation from Lt. Shepherd's former company at Fort Dix attended. Princeton Day School held a special memorial service, attended by grades 8 through 12, last Thursday morning.

The body, accompanied by an Army lieutenant, was brought by air to Dover, Del. on Monday. Interment was held Wednesday in Hillside Cemetery, Plainfield.

Memorial gifts may be made to Save the Children Federation Norwalk, Conn. 06852, for the children of Viet Nam.

HOSPITAL ON PARADE

Before Planners. Princeton Hospital is here to stay. That was the gist of a lengthy presentation Monday night by the hospital to members of the Township Planning Board.

The hospital is not only going to stay, it's going to continue growing, John W. Kauffman, administrator of the institution, told the Board. Using block models to give a third dimension to the slides he had already shown, Mr. Kauffman showed how the hospital plans to enlarge the present Medical Arts Building, using still construction to allow for parking underneath the buildings, and adding stories as needed.

A Mental Health Center may be located in this expanded structure, Mr. Kauffman said Future hospital plans also include an expanded emergency department, an auditorium, an enlarged Lambert House (nurses 'home), a parking garage on the present Franklin Avenue parking lot, and a new school of nursing, perhaps one

PLAUTUS, FOR FUN: That's the Braggart Warrior on the right. The patched eye belongs to an earnest young lover who is masquerading, for the moment, as a sea-captain. Hence the patch. Gordon Fearing is the Warrior and Daniel Hamilton the young swain in McCarter's revival of Plautus' farce, "The Braggart Warrior."

News Of The THEATRES

HE'S A BRAGGART

"Warrior" Opens. People who say you can't produce those old classic plays for modern audiences had better step up to the McCarter box-office for a ticket to "The Braggart Warrior."

Plautus' ridiculous farce, written a couple of thousand years ago, and translated for moderns by George E. Duckworth, of the classics department at Princeton, is a very funny play. Gordon Phillips has had great fun directing it, and the cast has great fun acting it, and when Gordon Fearing as Pyrgopolynices, the braggart warrior himself, turns to the audience at the end and says "Give us your applause," well, what can you do?

Pyrogropolynices is tall, handsome, muscular of arm and empty of head. "I smell something divine, and it's me" he says early in the evening.

He's one of those dumb Romans with a wily Greek slave, this particular one being Palaestrio, who has lecherous cheekbones, bedroom eyes and a mind like Groucho Marx. Jake Dengel, who must have to start yesterday to get all that makeup just right, plays the part with delicious wickedness, and a genuine flair for turmoil.

About That Film . . . We were going to outline the plot. Ever try to describe a Marx Brothers' movie? "Braggart Warrior" is about a clownish slave who gets the right pair of young lovers sorted and pulls the wool over his master's eyes and the rug from under his feet the same time. Who needs a plot? Let's just talk about the characters.

To get on with the "Fe" there's Philocomasium, a delectable bit of sugar (Tarmara Daniel) who belongs to the warrior, but has been seen kissing Pleusicles, a handsome young gallant, scarcely brighter than the warrior, who is played with just the proper amount of adorable dumbness by Daniel Hamilton.

And then—ah, then! There's Acroteleuium, a courtesan, who swings on stage in a black sequin costume indescribable in a family newspaper. You will doubtless remember Eve Johnson as the drab wife in "View from the Bridge" last fall. Look again, boys, look again.

It is Miss Johnson's Acroteleuium by the way, who has one of the best lines in the play. "The keel," she says, "has been well-laid by expert craftsmen."

Earthy in Theme. Certainly it's a bawdy play. Remember those Romans? Director Phillips has understood the earthiness with deft bits of business, done so lightly and quickly they're done and gone before you've stopped laughing.

Mr. Phillips is wise to do this, because "Braggart Warrior" doesn't have enough plot to keep the pot boiling without a lot of bits and business and carefully-planned nonsense to hold your eye and ear.

One of these pleasant bits is an occasional Gilbert-Sullivan patter song, usually done in deliberately clumsy couplets by people who can't sing and really aren't supposed to. The music has been assembled by John Gamke (he's Vladimir in "Godot") from various medieval sources with tight-hearted success.

Did we forget anybody? Bryan Hull's Periplectomenus, the old codger who shelters the young lovers; Michael Mac-Rae's Seeledrus, the bumble-nutted slave who sees the stolen kiss; Lauren Jones' Milphidippa, the courtesan's maid, object of Palaestrio's leering eye.

McCarter keeps reminding people that "A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum" was made from this play. See and compare.

for years as a composer for television and the films. He wrote the scores for "The Nurses" and "The Defenders," and served as music supervisor and sound editor for such films as "Splendor in the Grass," "The Power and the Glory" and "The Fugitive Kind."

His works for concert performance include a song cycle, "Innocence and Experience" on the poems of William Blake, and a cantata, "Seasons" on poems by Thomas Nashe.

Mr. Lewin's cantata, "Music for the White House" was composed for a performance at the White House in December, 1965, by the Westminster Choir and the U. S. Marine Band. The composer also served as the conductor on this occasion. The cantata is based on American songs from 1750 to 1860.

Composing incidental music for plays is not new to Mr. Lewin. He has written for "A Mid-Summer Night's Dream," "Twelfth Night," "As You Like It" and "Taming of the Shrew," and for contemporary plays by such authors as Giraudoux, Tennessee Williams, Garcia Lorca, Capote and Anouilh.

PLAYHOUSE and PRINCE

Funeral In Berlin (now playing) The character of British secret agent Harry Palmer, created in novels by Len Deighton, was first introduced to film audiences in "The Ipcress File." Palmer is back on another case, this one revolving around a fake funeral and an exchange of corpses.

"Funeral in Berlin" is a superior entry in the current spy tale cycle. Michael Caine, as Palmer, is crisply efficient. While no superman in the James Bond tradition, he plays Palmer as an intelligent resourceful man.

Caine is assigned to go to Berlin to direct plans for receiving a defecting Russian colonel. In spite of his superiors' assurances, he is skeptical. Oscar Homolka etches an interesting portrait of a very shrewd, very human, Russian officer. Their battle of wits leads into a search for Nazi documents with a beautiful Israeli agent played by Eva Renzi, a newcomer to the screen scene.

The scenes in East and West Berlin are detailed, colorful and fascinating. The dialogue is sharp and amusing, with Caine in rare style.

The Green Street considers the film A-Okay for adults and mature young people.

GARDEN

After the Fox (now playing) is a light-weight spoof starring Peter Sellers who dominates almost every minute of it.

Sellers plays an Italian for the first time. As Aldo Vanucci a confident convict known as The Fox, he decides to "leave" prison when he learns that his sister is falling into evil ways. In order to elude the police, he assumes various disguises — doctor, priest, American tourist and police-

Learn Japanese Flower Arranging

A five-lesson course in flower arrangement, Japanese style, will be given starting Monday, March 13, at the Little Orient Shop on Main Street in Flemington.

These courses are something of a tradition by now at Little Orient and the series will be given again, as it has been on two previous occasions, by Mrs. Muriel Coxhead, of Plainfield. Mrs. Coxhead holds two certificates in Japanese flower arrangement and is now working toward the third and most difficult, the Ikenoba.

Beginners and advanced students are equally welcome at the Little Orient classes. The cost is $30 for the five weekly sessions, and the fee includes all the live flowers and greens you will use in the classes and then take home — flawlessly arranged, of course!

Class starts at 1 p.m., and usually runs at least two hours, sometimes more because Mrs. Coxhead is an enthusiast who doesn't watch the clock.

The size of the class will be limited to eight, so an early registration is advisable. A deposit of $3, sent to the Little Orient Shop, Main Street, Flemington, will hold your place in class. On the first day, you should take with you any flower-arranging tools you may have, like shears, pin holder or a low bowl. But no floral clay: the Japanese frown on its use.

Little Orient's owner, Mrs. Clavolino, is an enthusiast herself, and she says "Once you take a course like this, you'll never be the same again!"

IT'S NEW To Us

WHAT'S FOR SPRING?

Color! Wear dark glasses for your spring appointment at Brune Interiors. The colors and patterns in 1967 home fabrics are wild, sharp and hot, and your living-room will never be the same again.

Art Nouveau and Tiffany designs are the inspiration for many of the patterns, as they have been in past seasons, but this year, they reach farther than ever into the color spectrum.

And sometimes the fabric is wild, too. Ever think of velours for summer, for example? Yet here is a softly napped velours in heat-weave pink, tropical lemon, turquoise. Or, just to be different, subdued blues, soft as the velours itself.

Or take chenille. For summer? Well why not? Brune shows one chenille in a floral pattern of bright mustard and olive, and with it, a matching bark pattern in a solid brassy olive. In another there's an overlay of chenille on a standard upholstery fabric, and here again we have olive against bronze, this time in a large check pattern.

When you see these daisies, you'll realize the chenille we're talking about isn't the chenille grandma used to use for a bedspread. Here are orange daisies with fuschia chenille centers, if you can believe it, or a lime daisy with hot turquoise center. The print also comes in blue daisies with blue chenille centers, on white, so you can play it conservative or wild at heart.

The Brune staff is particularly excited this spring about Greeff's "Country Manor" collection, and it's certainly one you'll want to consider for spring-summer decorating.

Take — and you will! — "Villa Viesca," a fabric adapted from Portuguese gold and blue tiles, and so realistically executed you'll think you're looking at antique tile-work when you see the fabric from across the room.

It comes in wallpaper, too, and even in real ceramic tiles, in fact, the fabric-paper-tile trio is available in many Greeff tile patterns, some more informal than "Villa Viesca" with charming little blue birds and flowers in true Delft style against white.

Another "Country Manor" print arranges bound sheaves of yellow-green wheat with melon sections, strawberries, pears and grapes, all lush with light, but not strident with color.

That dark bronze appears again with a few rust tones in a painted swirl design from "Country Manor" and Brune shows it with a deep olive twist rug or an informal rust-coral shag rug.

Like linen? So does Brune. To the tune of five shelves! Prices here start at $3.60 and climb right up to $20, to suit all ranges and tastes.

For a contemporary house, Brune suggests a dark linen geometric in russets, browns and bronzes. For a summer lift, there is a semi-sheer linen in wide floral stripes, each stripe totally different from its neighbor: a mass of big lime roses lined up against a mass of tiny yellow star-flowers, and so on across the width.

man — until he finally settles on the funniest one of all, a "new wave" Italian director. In his element at last, he talks an entire Italian village into helping him smuggle gold from Cairo to Rome, under the guise that they are making a film titled, "The Gold of Cairo."

Victor Mature steals considerable footage as the fading movie idol, Martin Balsam is his suspicious manager and Akim Tamiroff is the shifty gold smuggler.

The Green Sheet endorses the film for adults and teens.

READ THE BOOK?

Then See the Movie. "Novel into Film" is the theme of the second half of McCarter Theatre's current Classic Film Series, and it will open next Tuesday at 8 with "The Brothers Karamazov."

This is the Richard Brooks' 1959 movie with Maria Schell as Grushenka, and Yul Brynner, Richard Basehart, William Shatner and Albert Salmi in key roles. Tickets at the door.

FAR, FAR, FAR OUT . . .

In Experimental Cinema. After that crowd at the experimental film show last fall, McCarter Theatre has decided to sell tickets in advance for its second "Evening of Experimental, Avant-Garde and Independent Cinema," scheduled for Monday, February 27. House lights will dim at 8. Tickets now at the box-office.

This program—and it is for adults only; no children will be admitted — will include works by four winners of Ford Foundation grants. They are Bruce Connor ("A Movie"); Stan Vanderbeek ("Science Friction"); Carmen D'Avino ("Pianissimo") and Ed Emshwiller ("Dance Chromatic.")

"O Dreamland," "The Private Life of a Cat," "Time Piece" and "The Critic" will also be shown.

"TAMING OF THE SHREW"

Is Intime's Next. Princeton University's Theatre Intime, which has experimented with Brecht and "Little Mary Sunshine" this season, will present Shakespeare's "The Taming of the Shrew" for two weekends, starting next Thursday, February 23.

The play is directed by Peter Platten, Intime's new president, and stars Bob Rockwell as Petruchio and Sheila Sheffield of Westminster Choir College as Kate. Many of the same undergraduates responsible for the Intime's fall shows are taking part.

The play will run from February 23 through the 26th, and from March 1 through March 4, at 8.30 each evening. Reservations may be made by calling the Murray Theatre (452-3637) any week night between 7.30 and 10 p.m. Tickets may also be picked up at the theatre between those hours beginning this Thursday.

TO GIVE "STALAG 17"

At Hun School. "Stalag 17", a comedy-melodrama about a German prisoner-of-war camp, will be presented by the Hun School Drama Club this Friday and Saturday at 8 p.m. The play, written by David Bevan and Edmund Trzcinski, is directed by Munro Wade.

Both performances will be held in the Saks Auditorium long his collection of amusing sporting themselves in bright colors on a dark ground. A charming cotton print in pinks, oranges and yellows, shows off some flat cockatoos, gay as summer in the garden.

What's new? Brune likes to use Velero tape to "paper" a wall with fabric. Rip it off when you want another print. Brune likes to use that durable outdoor carpeting right down your stairway and out onto your sidewalk. Brune likes to see scrubbable vinyl papers on your walls, in wide paisley stripes or ridiculous color combinations like puce and brown. Brune likes to sell you just a yard of something wild and gay, for a summer dress.

Call for an appointment, 924-4040, Monday-Friday, 9-5.

BONDED

We're Stuck on You. Bonded fabrics will make your spring suit or dress, if you shop at Gretchen's, the fabric store on Route 130.

We like these bonded acrylics, in a wide selection of weaves and colors. Here's an open basketweave navy with windowpanes of red and white. Here's a bopsacking in pink or rose-beige. Here's a closely-woven basketweave in palest aqua or lime. Here's a jersey in pale willow, copen or solid navy. All firmly bonded, all 54" wide, all $5.25 a yard.

Bonded wools could be those tiny houndstooth, the ones in lilac, pink, light green, blue . . . You might make a pants suit out of one using Simplicity's 6636.

Non-bonded wools, in Gretchen's back room, begin with a palette of whitishes, just like whipped cream. Make Voque's Ricci Paris Original, 1726, in a wide-eyed pink or a thick cream. The pinks are thickly nubbed, or perhaps tweedy with a hint of white. There's a solid dusty pink, too. And the loveliest pale lime sherbert!

Your spring silk blouse could be an Art Nouveau print, like, the lining of your navy suit. Or it might be a garden of big blue and violet dahlias. A softer print has tiny pink bars all over a barely visible white ground.

For warm weather ahead, Gretchen's suggests a cotton print hand-blocked in India. The background is white, the print has 12-inch petaled daisies surrounded by a fence of dots, in orange-brown-rust. $2.50 for a 45-inch width.

Blended fabrics blend their colors, too. Lemons, in color and shape, float with oranges on a soft olive sea. Comes in a hotter print too, with fuschia, shocking and purple.

An interesting border fabric has a linenlike weave and a nine-inch border of soft-embroidery and eyelet work about ten inches above the edge. Black, or turquoise.

RUBBED A TOMB LATELY?

They Have, in Thailand. A delightful little sheaf of tombrubbings from Thailand seems far from home, on the main street of Flemington, New Jersey, but that's where they are.

We found them at the Little Orient Shop for only $2.95 each. Some are charcoal, some rose, some green. Most of them show temple dancers or musicians, although there is one active print of a restive horse and driver.

This shop is undergoing major face-lifting so don't be misled by the front appearance into thinking the place is closed. It's open and bustling.

ousified to produce Registered Nurses.

He added that the hospital hoped to continue the "J" building, now under construction, upward (two or three stories at a time, until it reached a height of ten stories.

Most of these plans had been outlined some time ago to Borough Council, because the hospital is located within the Borough and must seek most of its variances there.

However, the Township has recently tussled with the hospital over parking areas that do fall within Township boundaries and trustees and Planning Board members believed that mutual exchange of views might be helpful.

How Far? How Many? The hospital serves an area ranging from Belle Mead, to south of Hightstown, west to Lawrenceville, east to Dayton, comprising 399,000 people.

Sergio Bonotto, 72 Henry Ave., questioned whether the hospital had "a mandate" to care for such a large chunk of megalopolis, and he asked consideration of "alternate solutions."

Mr. Kauffman said that a hospital may be built between Allentown and Hightstown and another in the Hamilton Square area, either or both of which would relieve pressure on Princeton. Mr. Bonotto suggested the hospital apply pressure of its own to get these two hospitals built.

The hospital has been talking with the Princeton Chamber of Commerce about bus service, Mr. Kauffman said. Mr. Bonotto observed that a bus down Witherspoon would probably mean the street would have to be widened.

To be any good, a hospital has to be sizeable, Mr. Kauffman said repeatedly. He referred to the community's two urologists, and two orthopedic surgeons and suggested that specialists like these could not make a living if a hospital served only a 30,000-population community.

John Wallace, Township Committeeman on the Board, asked why the hospital could not decentralize, and Mr. Kauffman said this would zoom up hospital costs.

In defense of the Medical Arts Building with its couples of doctors' offices, Mr. Kauffman said that patient care was better when doctors were close to their hospital, and he said that 95% of the births in the hospital occurred with doctors in attendance.

Revised Map. In non-medical matters, the Planning Board adopted a revised Open Space map eliminating the Ruedeman, Clark, Eno-Updike and certain wooded Herrontown area properties, but retaining the Timothy Sheean property. Negotiations are in progress with owners, however, and Thomas Cook, Open Space counsel, said he hoped to be "well along" with most negotiations by March.

Developments:

"Snowden"'s four lots on Linwood Circle were tabled until March so the board can communicate with the Joint Historic Sites Commission about the fate of the old house called "Snowden." Benedict Yedlin, the developer, wants to tear it down because he believes it's uneconomical to restore it. Mrs. Robert Greiff told the board Monday night that the Historical Society has no funds for "Snowden" but would like time to discuss the

For your summer garden, you will certainly want that 32-pound "featherstone," the two-foot piece of lava you can use in all kinds of ways. ($25) It's soft, so you can chisel it out in any form you wish. You can make a hollow just the size to hold a plant, and grow your plant right there in the stone. Under $3, are some of Little Orient Shop's wonderful smooth Japanese stones. (Keep one for yourself, to fondle from time to time.)

Two graceful iron birds would love a home in your garden. One, a crane, is more than two feet tall, measured from his upturned beak. The other, a heron, is slightly smaller. They are $15.95.

Turning from stone and metal to wood, we find driftwood in fascinating variety. Here's a little piece for only $1.95. And here's a splendidly mis-shapen giant for $14. What a challenge to a flower-arranger or a landscape gardener?

Inside, in the jewel showcase, we found carved ivory rings to match the tan you've going to get, retaining-walnut hair barettes from India, curving brass bracelets from India at only $1.95 and more earrings than you have ears to hang them from.

A beautiful day to own a Volkswagen Station Wagon.

On Monday, January 24, 1966, an estimated 262,825,033.74 tons of snow fell upon the United States of America.

In Fraser, Colorado, a VW Station Wagon that stood for days out in temperatures of 25 below, started up without a tremble.

In Scarsdale, a lonely VW was blazing a trail to the commuter station.

In Albany, a VW took 8 angry neighbors down to the local service station for 8 sets of chains.

In Moline, a VW woman was first in line at the A&P Steak Sale.

Up in Boston, a group of college kids were finding out how many toboggans they could stuff into 170 cubic feet of VW space.

A Milwaukee junior hockey team won its game by default.

On Monday, January 24, 1966, not too many Volkswagens were sold in the United States.

On Tuesday, things picked up.

The Maintenance and Care Of The Hair

Like a healthy complexion, a healthy and abundant scalpful of hair is frequently an inheritance. The skin, however, is more completely visible to its wearer, who more easily recognizes changes in its condition or appearance, however slight, than in that of the hair. The exposed areas of the skin usually are washed at least twice daily, and most women will often additionally nurture theirs with balms and unguents.

The hair, as an appendage of the skin also must be given regular scrupulous care to a far greater extent than some often washed areas of the skin the hair is exposed to dust, noxious fumes and vapors.

I find that many women don't like to shampoo their hair too often for fear of losing the natural oils in their hair. Women can and have done more harm to the hair by under washing their hair than by cleaning it whenever necessary. There are now preparation that give nourishment to the hair and scalp.

Women very seldom neglect their skin — they pamper it with creams and lotions — this must also be done to the hair and scalp if you are to have a healthy head of hair. Hair cleanness, hygiene and hair conditioning, words which suggest nothing exciting, have been hurled at us so continuously during our lifetime that they have come to lose the impact they should have. Yet I know of nothing so beneficial to the health of one's hair as the patient and unrelenting practice of hair conditioning for the basic regular procedure and the maintenance of good healthy hair.

Dean Mathey and Princeton University came around informally with plans for 17 homes off Province Line Road on the Pheasant Hill area. The plans were referred to the Road Sub-Committee.

Duffield Associates unrolled a strip of six lots on Mercer Road, beyond Quaker Bridge, which they have an option to buy. Township Engineer Frank Quinby said the land lies wholly within the flood plain, and that the 150-foot encroachment line from mid-stream outward, takes in the whole property.

At the request of Duffield's representative, the board will set down in writing its intention of adopting a flood plain ordinance prohibiting building in such areas.

ANNUAL MEETING SET

By Adult School Board. The Princeton Adult School Board's annual meeting will be held Tuesday, February 28, at 8.15 p.m. in the Princeton Public Library.

The public is welcome to attend and hear the report of the chairman, Mrs. Robert V. Dilley. Individuals with suggestions for future courses of study are invited to send them in writing to the Board at Box 709, Princeton, in advance of the meeting.

Leighton Laughlin, nominating committee chairman, will submit the following slate of officers: chairman, Mrs Robert V. Dilley; vice-chairman, Robert Staples; curriculum, Mrs James H. Johnson; treasurer, Mrs. Dwight North; secretary, Miss Katherine Lyons.

New members to be elected are: Mrs. F. J. Mangeren Jr., Mrs Malcolm Diamond, John Helmick, Mrs. Carl Hampel and Mrs. Albert H Marckwardt. Simon Marcson will be nominating committee chairman for 1968.

ADULT SCHOOL OFFICERS: At the annual meeting of the Princeton Adult School, to be held in the Princeton Library, these three officers will be on the 1967 slate. Reading un the library's staircase, they are Mrs. Robert V. Dilley, chairman; Mrs. James H. Johnson, curriculum chairman and Robert Staples, vice-chairman. (Staff Photo)

Board members who will serve for another year are Mrs. Elmer Alpert, Mrs. Salomon Bochner, Joseph Drulis, Mrs John A. Hartigan, Leighton Laughlin, George Loos, Simon Marcson, Mrs. George McClukey, Mrs. Robert Sewell, Mrs. Anne B. Shepherd and Mrs. George F. Thomas.

STATE AT CROSSROADS

On Route 92. Mercer County's legislative delegation considers the State Transportation Department the only governmental agency still holding out against the Route 92 alignment.

Assemblyman Charles Farrington said at the delegation's annual mayors conference Saturday that he is arranging a session with the department and state senators who have held up the project.

The communities involved "have pretty well agreed" on a substitute alignment between Route 206 and Route 1, Mayor Henry B. Patterson of Princeton Borough said. He doubted that the state would be satisfied.

Somerset Senator William Ozzard and Middlesex Senator John Lynch have blocked action on a bill which must be passed before work can begin on the road known as the "Princeton bypass."

The new route would begin near Princeton Airport and cut around Rocky Hill, run along the Montgomery-Princeton Township border into Franklin Township and South Brunswick.

The state was said to dislike the Route 206 intersection proposal. Rocky Hill and the Kingston Trap Rock Company were opposed to the alignment, as was Montgomery Township.

Last year, the Legislature approved a bill affecting the segment from Route 1 to Route 33 near Hightstown. Mr. Farrington said he had been advised that construction can begin in the spring of 1968.

TV SET STOLEN

From University Store. A four-inch TV set, taken from a shelf in the radio department at the University Store, was one of four minor thefts reported this week by Borough police.

The TV theft was reported Friday by Frank Durkin, manager of the department. The set was valued at $90.

Nancy Fenton, a student at Vassar College, reported on Saturday theft of $15 from her purse which was in a cloak room at the Cottage Club.

Two out-of-town drivers carried away unpleasant memories of Princeton.

Francis Lynch of Kendall Park has his battery stolen from his car Monday night while it was parked in the lot behind Trinity Church.

Saturday evening, John Junge of Leonardo, attending a dinner at the Nassau Inn,

PERFUME FOR MEN

A quiet revolution has been taking place in the whole area of men's toiletries. Men's colognes in spray form were introduced as long as 4 years ago. Hair sprays for men are also becoming common.

More important to the entire men's toiletries market, however, are the recent introductions of men's skin treatment and conditioning products . . . after-shave cream, after-shave emollients, pick-up masque, hand creams, cleansing creams, astringents, and skin conditioners.

One of the large women's cosmetic houses is coming out with a complete men's treatment line as part of an "educational drive to teach men about proper skin care." New treatment products for men are designed to "help the man with an oily skin . . . and the younger man with a blemish problem . . . and the man with dry, sensitive skin."

All of the new men's toiletries products fit in with many of the important trends in today's society . . . the emphasis on youth and the new emphasis on winter sports. Perhaps one day soon, the men's cosmetics industry may rival its female counterpart.

had a front wheel and tire stolen from his 1968 car. It had been parked in the P. M. 1 lot on Hulfish Street.

Police said a gallon can of paint had been placed under the brake drum to hold the car up. They estimated Mr. Junge's loss at $30.

LAND PURCHASE BACKED

In Montgomery Election. A referendum proposing the purchase of a 74-acre tract of land on Burnt Hill Road for the construction of a high school and later, another school, was approved Tuesday by Montgomery Township voters.

The vote was 405 in favor, 138 opposed. Purchase price—$177,600 — comes to $2400 per acre. At the same time, the budget for the coming year was approved by a margin of close to 2 to 1.

Two incumbents were returned to office on the school board. Raymond Hunt leading the victors at the polls with 404 votes. Harry Dowling, also a member, drew 378, while the third winner was Jack W. Graaskamp with 289.

Paul W. Ross trailed Mr. Graaskamp by only three votes, receiving 286 in a losing race. Jack Cooper was given 235. All seats filled were for full three-year terms.

Crair Wins in W. Windsor. Leading a six-man ticket by nearly 100 votes, W. Bradford Craig, board president, was returned to office in the West Windsor elections Tuesday. Mr. Craig received 394 votes.

Eleanor B. Dearborn, another incumbent, polled 296, while the third successful candidate was Walter L. Myers with 256. Defeated were Kenneth Schwartz, 213, Walter Dolitruk, 165; and Edward J. Dilolvere, 77.

The budget for the next 12 months was approved by margins ranging well over 2 to 1.

BURGLARY NETS $4432

Taken From Henrys Home. Township police have revealed the value of the articles taken from the home of Edward Henrys, 9 Heather Lane, which was entered the first weekend in February.

Taken were four shotguns with a combined value of $765. The remaining $3667 consisted of jewelry, TV sets, five radios and sterling silverware.

Most of it, police said, was jewelry taken from a bureau which contained Mrs. Henrys jewelry. The most expensive item was a platinum pin with three diamonds in the center and eight smaller ones. It was valued at $800.

HEAD HITS WINSHIELD

As Cars Collide. Paula Davis, 20, Piedmont Drive, Cranbury, received a bump on her forehead when her head hit the windshield of her 1966 sportscar following an accident Saturday morning on Alexander Street. She refused medical attention, police said.

Miss Davis skidded in to the side of a 1966 station wagon, which was attempting to turn into the driveway of Rosedale Mills, 274 Alexander. Police said the station wagon, operated by Sioux Glenn, 53, Carter Road, lost traction on the wet and slippery surface of the road, and a portion of it remained in the path of Miss Davis' car.

Miss Davis told Pfc. Michael Kopliner, the investigating officer, that she saw the Glenn car was intending to turn but she assumed it would wait until she passed by.

Saturday morning at 9:30, Kathleen B O'Donnell, 18, 19 Laurel Avenue, Kingston, skidded on Snowden Lane.

Her car left the roadway and continued onto the lawn at 46 Snowden, uprooting three small evergreen trees. She escaped injury.

A passenger in a car involved in a skidding accident at Hamilton Avenue and Linden Lane last Wednesday was Mrs. Evelyn Chasko, 52, 29 Fisher Avenue.

Mrs. Chasko complained of soreness in her left shoulder and arm and stiffness. She was taken to Princeton Hospital by a taxi. She was riding in a car driven by Thomas J. Ellis, 43, of Trenton.

The driver of the second car in the collision was William R. Guthrodt, 20, 50 William Street. Police issued no summonses.

COURT INTERRUPTED

By the Stork. Although there were 12 cases listed on Monday's Borough court calendar, only two were heard. In the only one involving a Princeton area resident, Scott W. Kim, 32, 412 Franklin Avenue, paid $15 for careless driving.

Court was halted at 8:30 when Sgt. Robert Anderson entered and told Magistrate Theodore T. Tams Jr. that his wife, expecting her sixth child, had just been taken to Princeton Hospital.

Magistrate Tams adjourned court for an hour to go to the hospital. There he was told the birth was imminent.

At 10 o'clock, a police officer adjourned court for the evening and some 30 minutes later, Mrs. Tams gave birth to a girl. The Tams have two other daughters and three sons.

Last week, Joseph Procacini, 21, 319 Witherspoon Street, was fined $15 for careless driving. Albert Walker, 55, 146 Witherspoon, paid $16 for speeding. His license was revoked, in addition pending re-examination by the Motor Vehicle Department.

APPLICANTS SOUGHT

For Borough Policemen. We've had no applicants yet, it's distressing that we can't get any."

Borough Chief Peter J. McCrohan was lamenting at his Tuesday press conference that no one had obtained application forms for the examination for patrolmen. He is attempting to fill two vacancies on his force.

The test will be given by State Police next Thursday. The 22nd, in the boys gymnasium at Princeton High School, starting at 6:45 p.m. Application forms may be picked up at any time from Borough police headquarters, 50 Stockton Street. They should be returned no later than February 21.

Applicants must be between 21-29. They may reside anywhere within the Princeton area.

$6,875 To Start. Starting salary is $6,875. This will increase after four years to $8,175. The work week is 40 hours.

Other benefits: pension plan, paid vacation (14 to 21 working days) and holiday time, half hospital and medical, and a good longevity pay program. All uniforms are supplied without cost.

"I just can't understand why we have not had any response," said Chief McCrohan. "With our salary scale and longevity, we have one of the highest-paid police departments in the state."

In addition, salaries for Borough policemen are scheduled to go up another $925 next year, when the second half of the their $1850 raise is granted.

ICE PATROL ON DUTY

good." Sgt. Jack Petrone, Township safety officer, reported Tuesday. "There was someone at each of the three rifle areas at all times."

He added, "I don't think the patrol is a finished product yet. We have a lot of rough edges to straighten out, but the response on the part of the people is good."

Patrol members are identified by a white handkerchief pinned to the right sleeve, pending official red and white arm bands.

Their greatest problem on Monday was to keep skaters within the safety zones, particularly skaters from outlying areas who had not heard of the new rules for skating at the lake.

Drownings in the lake and the adjacent Delaware-Raritan canal during recent years through ice accidents have caused authorities to restrict skating to these areas. (1) west of Washington Road Bridge, including the rear of Hibben-Magie Apartments; (2) east of the Washington Road Bridge down to the island; and (3) along the sailboat dock on the Princeton-Kingston Road.

The lights were on for night skating at the Kingston area on Monday. The lights at the Washington Road bridge are being repaired.

Sgt. Petrone activated the patrol on Sunday by calling the captain for each skating area: Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Oates, Area 1; Ray Rodweller, Area 2, and Robert Smyth and Arthur Rodgers, Area 3. The captains then set up their teams. Many of the men who have volunteered for the patrol are available only after 4:30 on weekdays and on weekends, and Sgt. Petrone foresees the need to strengthen the patrol by recruiting women and responsible teenagers for the two-hour afternoon shift.

Patrol Needs. The patrol held its final training session on Monday evening, meeting with Sgt. Petrone and Peter Cook, Princeton High School hockey coach, in the high school cafeteria. A number of lakefront dwellers also attended the session. A film on ice rescue was followed by a demonstration of rescue using ladder, rope and buoy.

The meeting brought out the need for portable plywood shelters for each area. The shelters should be equipped with a walkie talkie or other means of communication with Township police, two blankets, first aid kit, a ladder, ring buoy and 100 feet of rope. patrol members say. Also each member should be equipped with an armband and a whistle

BIRTHS

Twins Born. Mr. and Mrs. Francis Lurcat of 90 Einstein Drive became parents of twins, a boy and a girl, at Princeton Hospital on February 7, the day the blizzard paralyzed the area.

Twenty-seven children were born at the hospital last week: 15 girls and 12 boys.

DOPE RAID AFTERMATH:

Four Students Leave. Three of the five Princeton University students arrested in the January 5 narcotics raid have withdrawn because of "health reasons." A fourth has left for "personal reasons," according to Dean of Students William J. O Lipincott.

"No official action has been taken by the university," Dean Lipincott said. "The final decisions to withdraw were the students' own in consultation with their parents and, in applicable cases, with university health services."

The students who left the university were David A. Hoffman 20, and Jonathan R. Reynis, 19, both sophomores; Seaton D. Purdom, 18 a junior, and Mark H. Skolnick 20, a senior. The fifth student arrested, Lawrence S. Boskler, 20, will remain

Seaton Purdom left Princeton a few days after the arrest, suffering what a spokesman called "severe psychological reaction to the arrest." All of the suspects have had a preliminary hearing but have not been indicted According to Mercer County Prosecutor Vincent Panaro, it will be several weeks before the grand jury can consider the case.

ROTARIANS CELEBRATE 25th Anniversary Marked. The Princeton Rotary Club observed its 25th anniversary Tuesday with a Valentine's Dance held at the Nassau Inn. Club members, their wives and guests took part in the occasion.

Tony Kummler is president of Rotary, with Alan Frank serving as vice-president. The Princeton Club has more than 90 members.

IT TAKES LONGER NOW TO BECOME OLD

In the past there always were a few people who lived long lives. But most of them acquired the disease of old age before they were fifty years of age. After that they suffered from pains, aches, lack of energy, chronic coughs and other miseries.

Medical knowledge, diagnostic techniques, and positive acting drugs have been greatly improved. Now many people are young at seventy and hope to stay that way. To a great degree, how long you will live depends on you regularly having your physician check your body. By treating any ailment before it has time to become a serious problem, you can add many years to your life.

YOUR DOCTOR CAN PHONE US when you need a medicine. Pick up your prescription if shopping nearby. A great many people entrust us with their prescriptions. May we compound and dispense yours?

THREE LOSE LICENSES

Under Point System. Three Princeton drivers have had their licenses suspended by the Division of Motor Vehicles under its point system.

They are Francis J. Adams, 37, Millstone River Apartments; Richard S. Moore, 27, 305 Nassau Boulevard, both two months; and Demosthen N. Johnson, 34, Millstone River Apartments, one month.

Dean Snolf, 18, Westminster Choir College, surrendered his license for 30 days for speeding.

WE FAVOR THE CENTER

Say 600 in Petition. A proposed $20 million dollar shopping center which Colonial Village Manor Corporation hopes to build on 500 acres at the intersection of routes 69 and 518 in Hopewell Township has gained the support of some 600 nearby residents.

At a meeting Friday of the Township Planning Board, Charles Else of Route 69 presented a petition to the board bearing the signatures of almost 600 residents who said they favor the shopping center. Mr. Else said the signatures had been collected in three days prior to the meeting and that more would be forwarded to the board.

The signers also objected to changing the area of the proposed center from its present zoning—industrial with permitted commercial uses — to wholly industrial. At the meeting, Mrs. Robert Suydam, who has acted as spokesman for the Corporation, asked the board that it not alter the zoning of the site in its new ordinance.

About 100 persons were present at the meeting. Several of them asked the planning board members not to support the proposed center saying that they had moved to the Township because of its rural character and they would like to see it preserved.

Better than Industry. Claiming the center would be more beneficial to the Township than industry, John F. Abbotts, attorney for the corporation, told the board the developers had proven the complex feasible from a business standpoint. He pointed out that unlike vacant industrial tracts in other municipalities, where expectations of attracting industry did not materialize, the shopping center would represent an immediate gain —not one 50 years from now. (The developers estimate the entire complex would bring a half million dollars in taxes to the Township.)

Within a 20-mile radius of the center there is a population of 556,000 with a disposable income of $2,311,461,000. These figures were supplied by Marvin Reichenstein of South Orange who has prepared a marketing survey for the corporation. "Anyone with any knowledge of market statistics knows this is sufficient to carry a shopping center," he said.

One board member asked Mr. Reichenstein if he had made a study of the disposable income within a 10-mile radius. The questioner, Lester Huff, pointed out that a large amount of shoping is done in Princeton and Trenton.

It was also pointed out that present roads in the Township would be inadequate to service such a large center. However, Mrs. Suydam read a letter from the state highway department in which the agency said Route 69's low priority could be altered by any rapid commercial or residential development in the area.

"HOMEMAKERS" NEEDED

As Home Aides. Mrs. Elizabeth Craig, Executive Director of the Homemaker Service, has announced details of a program to enroll qualified women as Homemaker-Home Health Aides. Interested persons can join the Princeton Community Homemaker Service training program which will take place the week of February 27.

The training program will be given at the Nursing Arts Laboratory, School of Practical Nursing of the Princeton Hospital. Only the 30 women who are permitted to take the five-day program can obtain the certification required of Homemakers.

Participating in the course will be: Mrs. Seymour Montgomery, psychologist in the Princeton Regional School System; Frank X. Schneck, Director of the Social Service Department of the Princeton Hospital; and Mrs. Norman Jouse, Princeton Visiting Nurse Association. Also teaching will be: Mrs. Nancy Connor, home economist; Mrs. Henry Perrine, of the American Red Cross; Mrs. Morris Parmet, psychiatric social worker; and Mrs. Louise McAlinden, Director of the Amity Nursing Home.

Homemakers serve in homes, disrupted by temporary illness or other medical emergency, to give personal care to the convalescent and the aged. Those interested in taking the training program should call the Homemaker Office between 8 and 4, Monday through Friday.

D.A.R. PLANS LUNCHEON

For Month of Patriots. The Princeton Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution has set February 23 as the date for a Month of Patriots Luncheon. The affair will take place at 12:30 at Laniere's Restaurant.

Mrs. Albert C. Cornish, State Vice-Regent of New Jersey, will speak on the history of the Princeton chapter.

Freezing Point Vanishes

For four consecutive days last week, the thermometer never got as high as 32 degrees, the Stony Brook-Millstone Watershed Association reports. Beginning Monday, the temperature readings it took at its Marshall's Corner headquarters ranged from a high of 30 to a low of eight below.

Thermometers in many sections of Mercer County all recorded readings close to zero on Monday of this week, including those in the more urban areas. Officially, the U.S. Weather Bureau (which records its temperature 100 feet above the ground, and admits it's warmer there), said the low for the day was 6 — equaling the minimum for February 13 set in 1933.

An economy car so economical it doesn't even use gasoline—the Mercedes-Benz 200 Diesel.

Mercedes-Benz built the world's first Diesel-powered passenger car 31 years ago.

Today's version—burning inexpensive Diesel fuel—gives up to 30 miles per gallon in normal driving, and does it so smoothly that "many unsuspecting passengers are surprised to learn that they've been riding in a Diesel," according to CAR LIFE magazine.

Besides fuel economy, the 200 Diesel saves you money in the parts you'll never have to repair or replace. There are no spark plugs, points, condensers or distributors. And Diesels stand up while other cars are falling apart; over 87% of all Mercedes-Benz Diesel cars built since 1936 are still in running condition. Economical as it is, the 200 Diesel is also comfortable. Mercedes-Benz engineering genius provides the jolt-free riding ease of fully independent suspension. The sure stopping power of front disc brakes. And the rugged durability of a body welded in 10,000 places, armed with 48 pounds of rustproofing.

With proper care, your 200 Diesel should still be smoothly running—and saving you money—when other economy cars have been chopped up for scrap. A remarkable machine; come in soon for a thorough test-drive.

Obituaries

Mrs. Ruth P. Smyth, 97, died on February 14 at her home, 22 Morven Place, after a lengthy illness. She was the widow of Charles H. Smyth, professor of geology at Princeton University from 1905 until 1931.

Born in Shreveport, La., Mrs. Smyth came to Princeton in 1905. She was a member of Trinity Episcopal Church.

Surviving are two sons, Charles P. Smyth of Princeton, professor of chemistry emeritus of Princeton University, and Henry De W. Smyth of Princeton, United States Ambassador to the International Atomic Energy Agency.

A private service and interment in Princeton Cemetery were held at the convenience of the family, under the direction of the Kimble Funeral Home.

Memorial contributions may be made to the Bonnie Brae Farm for Boys, c/o of the Treasurer's Office, 605 Broad Street, Newark.

Albert C. Cornish, 77, of 228 State Road died on February 8 in Princeton Hospital after a lengthy illness. A retired petroleum executive, he was the husband of Mrs. Gertrude Cornish.

Mr. Cornish served in China for 30 yrs. as general manager for the Standard Oil Company of New York, after graduating in 1911 from Princeton University.

He was petroleum director with the Office of Petroleum Administration in New York during World War II, and later served in Germany as petroleum coordinator. He returned to Princeton in 1949 to become financial manager for the Applied Science Corporation.

Surviving are a son, Albert C. Cornish Jr. of Venezuela; a daughter, Mrs. Christie C. Pistell of Owings Mills, Md., and four grandchildren.

The service and interment were private, under direction of the Kimble Funeral Home. Contributions may be sent to the scholarship fund of the Princeton Class of 1911.

Theodore G. Belotte, 54, died of a heart attack at his home, 108 Stockton Street, on February 12. He was an assistant professor at Princeton Theological Seminary, serving as director of radio and television. His wife, Mrs. Marie W. Belotte, survives him.

Following a career as a radio and television technician in the Washington, D.C. area, Mr. Belotte came to Princeton Seminary to earn his master's degree in theology in 1956. He was promoted to an assistant professorship in 1959 and became director of radio and television in 1962.

Also surviving are two brothers, James D. of New Orleans and John L. of San Angelo, Texas; and three sisters, Mrs. E. William Lloyd of Shreveport, La., Mrs. Robert O. Horrah of New Orleans and Mrs. J. William Edgerton of Broomall, Pa.

The service was held at the Miller Chapel of Princeton Seminary. Interment will be in Princeton Cemetery under direction of the Mather Funeral Home. Contributions may be made to the Memorial Scholarship Fund at the Seminary.

Mrs. Theresa C. Cuomo, 60, of 168 Linden Lane, died on February 7 in Princeton Hospital. She was the wife of Vincent Cuomo.

Also surviving are a son, Frank M. Cuomo of Princeton; four daughters, Mrs. Francis

TEENAGERS? ONLY A REFLECTION: Although Mrs. Ronald Kreser finds today's teenagers "very frightening", she places most of the blame on adults. "Teenagers are only a reflection of the older generation," she says. (Staff Photo)

Question of the Week

Question: What is your opinion of today's teenagers?

Where asked: Around town.

Mrs. Alden Carlson, Belle Meade, housewife: I think, on the whole, they're very good. They show a lot of common sense. I've got one, and he and his friends take things seriously—not profoundly but they have an interest in things. All you ever hear about are the bad ones.

Saul Siegel, 245 Nassau Street, management consultant: By and large, I feel they expect too much—much more so than the previous generation. They are not willing to put forth the effort required.

Mrs. Marretta Hoadley, 71 Palmer Square, retired Princeton merchant: I think they're rather nice. I'm very fond of young people.

Milton G. White, Quaker Road, professor: I think they're going to do far more for the future of this country than people give them credit for. When they get their feet on the ground and mature a little bit more, then their freewheeling and challenging spirit is just what this country will need.

Mrs. Edna Gelken, Tenacre Foundation, receptionist: I don't think they can be classified as teenagers. They're people! I think that's the mistake we make. There are teenagers that are perfectly wonderful and advanced beyond anything we knew two generations ago. On the other hand, there are some adults who are not too particular what they do and the same is true of some teenagers.

Ronald Coyle, Trenton, duplicating products, A.B. Dick distributor: To tell the truth, I think they have it too easy today. Every place they go, they ride. When they go to school they go by bus; when they go into town they take a car or a cab. Seems to me teenagers today tell their parents what to do instead of vice-versa. Maybe the reason is that in most families today both parents work. Fifteen years ago it was rare to see the wife work. This may be the problem. Teenagers today talk back to and have no respect for their elders . . . the majority. There are some exceptions, of course.

Mrs. Renee Levy, Cranbury, housewife: think they are far more aware of what's going on in the world today than the teenager of 10-15 years ago. Generally, they're more enlightened. Of course, today's teenagers look to college to get a good education before settling down. Ten to 15 years ago, they looked forward to working immediately after leaving high school. They have a different set of values today. I think maybe just about 10 percent are bad. Ninety percent of the teenagers today are good.

John Strassburger, Graduate College, history, I'm just sorry I'm not one of them. All this talk about the new teenager makes me fel as though I'm missing something. Time magazine doesn't talk about today's teenager the same way it did five years ago.

Herbert Wright, Quaker Bridge Road, dairyman, Walker-Gordon: They're not like us when we were kids. They're harder to control and its harder to get things across to them.

Mrs. Alfred Hoehle, 240 Mt. Lucas Road, housewife: We hear about the bad ones, we don't hear about the good ones. Bad news travels fast. This is the way I feel. I feel most of them are pretty good. I really don't think they are as bad, in general, as they are painted to be. Before we moved here, my husband's car got stalled and three young boys from Princeton pushed him in their car four miles. It was 11 o'clock at night and raining something terrible.

Mrs. Ronald Kresge, Pineville, Pa., secretary for Alderman & Click, Spring Street: Speaking as a mother, I find they are very frightening, socially and educationally and morally. I don't feel there are sufficient good things for them to do or to learn from. When we were kids, we got to go to very well chaperoned dances with good music. The problem, as I see it, is the overall appearance put before the teenagers by the parents themselves. Teenagers have to have an image to learn from and if adults today don't present themselves in the manner in which they should, then how are teenagers going to learn? After all, teenagers are only the reflection of the older generation.

James Hynes, Lawrence Court, graduate student, chemistry. It's sort of a natural tendency for older people, in general, to look somewhat askance at some of their activities. Personally, not being too far removed from a teenager myself, and having gone through similar situations, I think we took things somewhat more in stride than teenagers today seem to. I think they want too much freedom without any of the responsibilities.

No Time for Harasment.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

If the law says that property-owners must shovel their walks within 24 hours after the snow stops or pay a great fine, then where is the law that says that when I step off someone's carefully - shovelled sidewalk at a corner, I should-n't have to be up to my knees in snow because of my taxpaid snow plow?

Why should I either climb up two feet of snow or sink down two feet to pull a nickel in a parking meter? Why must I shovel my driveway entrance twice and sometimes three times because my tax-driven snow plow continues to pile it up again? They could raise their plows when passing driveways.

And when will our town learn to help a snowed-in car, instead of fining it? People don't abandon a car for fun or convenience! Snow is an inconvenience for all, and all should help!

To the Editor of Town Topics:

Because of the blizzard, we got to stay home from grade school today. I felt very proud of our mailmen and oil delivery men. As my father says, "They really deserve medals!"

Our mailman came stumbling up our front step to deliver our mail even though it was only ads. And the person who drove an oil truck slopped across the street. He fell down, but he still delivered oil.

So on this snowy day, I feel very proud of mailmen and other public workers.

"Question" Questioned.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

I am frankly appalled that TOWN TOPICS would have the consummate bad taste to debate Mrs. Kennedy's "respect" as the "Question of the Week." Mrs. Kennedy's personal tragedy is so irredeemably horrible, that it is the cheapest kind of journalism to parade her conduct before this jury of people who know nothing more than what they read in the papers.

We've been too kind, they say: she's only human, after all (but when did she ever pretend otherwise) What a depressing spectacle, to watch the innate meanness of the human spirit reassert itself as compassion is eroded by resentment and jealousy. We want her to suffer — really suffer.

But the most outrageous comment of all, surely, is that of one G. W. Esty ("I happen to be a physician"), whose envy of the "aristocratic hierarchy" (marvelous phrase, that — calling up memories of oppression under the heel of disdainful overlords) is all too evident. Does this man know Mrs. Kennedy? Has he ever talked with her. As a man of science, or we are told, would he diagnose a patient's condition on such evidence?

TOWN TOPICS has done itself, and the intelligent part of its readership, a grave disservice in soliciting and publishing such careless opinions whose pathetic motto is "See: She's no better than we are — and maybe even worse." But then, any physician could tell us that this is one way of alleviating our own feelings of guilt; the unanswerable suspicion that President Kennedy was killed because we let him be killed.

STEPHEN C. BANDY
28 Witherspoon Lane

Editor's Note: The volume of comment by press, radio, television and the public over the Manchester-Kennedy controversy has been such that TOWN TOPICS hardly feels it has markedly increased the publicity Mrs. Kennedy received by asking 15 residents of the community how they felt about her actions in the matter. The Gallup Poll asked a nation-wide sample whether it felt Mrs. Kennedy's image had been damaged by the stand she took on the book's publication. For what it's worth, a majority said they thought it had.

Apology Offered.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

In a recent exchange of published letters, I have been accused of misquoting one of the candidates for the School Board. At no time has it been my intention either to misquote or to misrepresent and I have therefore attempted to obtain facts.

Unfortunately station WHWH did not keep a permanent tape record of its broadcast of the Candidates Meeting. Because of the foregoing I am unable to substantiate my previous proposition that "one of the candidates strongly proposed that all and any new program in Princeton Regional School System could be financed with Federal Government funds." I believe that such was the case and so do many others who heard the discussion. Regardless, as I am unable to prove my contentions, I hereby publicly apologize if I have in any way, although unintentionally, misrepresented what was said.

To return to the subject of government financing of local school requirements, I believe that the issue which I had raised dealt solely with the Federal Government, Federal Aid, under the National Defense Education Act, to the Princeton schools, in 1966-67, is $7000, not $462,000 as erroneously reported. The information is readily available on page 4 of the published proposed budget. Careful reading will reveal that the difference of $455,000 is from the State of New Jersey. An additional item, of information, concerns Federal Aid under the Elementary and Secondary Education Act. Princeton Regional Schools receive approximately $40,000 which is not a budget item and which is expended although the total of $47,000 is considerably less than $502,000 ($462,000 plus $40,000). I would hardly deem it necessary to return these funds even though they do represent only 1.003% of the 1966-67 total of $4,684,000 rather than approximately 10% as mistakenly indicated by others.

Rereading of my previous letter clarify that I at no time mentioned the State of New Jersey any more than the Ford Foundation or any other possible source of education fund grants. My sole argument was directed toward the conte-

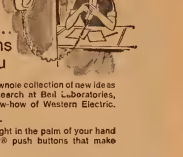
You are looking at one of the most exciting telephone ideas in 91 years



The new Trimline® phone... with push buttons that come to you

This new phone is actually a whole collection of new ideas—the payoff of years of research at Bell Laboratories, plus the manufacturing know-how of Western Electric.

Makes phoning easier, faster.

Pick up the phone . . . and right in the palm of your hand are the lighted Touch-Tone® push buttons that make "dialing" twice as fast.

And notice the recall button just below the Touch-Tone buttons. To make another call, just press it and you've got a dial tone without reaching to hang up first.

The cord is 18" longer, so you can move around more freely. Or really settle back and relax.

New phone locations possible.

Because the buttons are in the handset, you don't need to see the base to call. So you can tuck your new Trimline phone in handy, space-saving places — under a counter, or on the side of a kitchen cabinet. And the base is much smaller than a conventional wall phone — only 2¾" x 8".

But you probably won't want to hide it.

The sculptured Trimline styling blends gracefully with any decor. It's the only telephone in the world ever to be selected for the permanent Design Collection in New York's Museum of Modern Art. The styling keeps the phone cleaner, too — the buttons hide from dust when not in use.

New Trimline phones cost just a few pennies a day. You can order yours from your Telephone Business Office in wall or table models, with either Touch-Tone push buttons or a standard dial.

There have been a lot of good ideas in telephoning since Alexander Graham Bell brought the first one to life 91 years ago. We think you'll like his latest grandchild — the new Trimline phone.

tion which I claimed had been made, and which has now been denied, that the Federal Government was the sole and only source of help to be sought. I chose to point out the potential costs involved in such an approach.

In addition to the foregoing, I quote from my previous letter in order that there may be no misunderstanding of my position as it concerns the acquisition of outside funds. "Thus, we examine any possible decisions in light of whether the individual taxes, to be paid by the electorate, will be increased out of all proportion to the ultimate worth obtained." The question of worth must be decided by the Board of Education in public consulation with the voters and the School District Administration.

IF YOU LIKE A BANJO This One's King-size. A homemade banjo seven feet tall will sound out at the Next Door coffeehouse this Friday, played by its owner and manufacturer, John Zehnder. A collector of folk music instruments and a skilled performer, he will also have on hand his mandolin and self-made 12-string guitar.

Teaming with Zehnder in a program of vintage blues and stringed instruments styles will be Dave Kohut of Princeton's Marrowbone Creek Vagrants, and a singer of old blues and "down-home bluegrass tunes. Performances will be more or less continuous from 9:30 on.

On Saturday, there will be a super hootenanny at the Next Door. Starting at 9:30 and continuing until 1 a.m., all Princeton folk singers are invited to show their wares and meet other performers at the first hootenanny of the winter.

Three hootenannies were held last fall at the coffee house and met with good sucess and often surprising combinations of folk talent. Beginners and professionals, guitars and combos — all instruments and styles — are welcome. The Next Door is located in the basement of First Presbyterian Church on Nassau Street.

COMMITTEE IS NAMED To Work with Selden. An eight - member organizing committee has been named to explore the creation of a Princeton Arts Council.

William K. Selden, a nationally - known consultant in higher education, has been named chairman of the committee, which grew out of a series of exploratory meetings sponsored by the Greater Princeton Chamber of Commerce and Civic Council. The Chamber, as part of a long-range program, hopes to strengthen the cultural and material assets of the greater Princeton area.

Those serving on the organizing committee under Mr. Selden are: Alan W. Carrick, Borough Council member and attorney; Robert V. Dilley, executive secretary of the Chamber; Mrs. James R. Faus, Gallery 100; Professor Alan S. Downer, Chairman, Department of English, Princeton University; Mrs. Vera McKinley, Princeton Art Association; Arthur W. Lithgow, executive director, McCarter Theatre; and Mrs. Dewitt H. Smith.

POET APPOINTED To Princeton Faculty. Reed Whittemore, one of the nation's most widely published poets, has been named to the Princeton faculty.

Mr. Whittemore published his first volume of poetry, "Heroes and Heroines" in 1947. Since then he has written "An American Takes a Walk" "The Self-made Man" (1959), "The Boy from Iowa" (1962) and "The Fascination of Abomination." His work has appeared in "The Saturday Review," "The New Yorker," "The Nation" and other magazines.

After earning his B.A. at Yale in 1941, Mr. Whittemore did graduate work in history at Princeton. During his term at Princeton, he will offer a seminar, "Poetry as Statement," and supervise the work of students in creative writing courses.

Mr. Whittemore is the first

MUSIC In Princeton

THE BEAT IS JAZZ

As "Teaching" Music. "If a kid isn't quite ready for Chopin, why not teach him the subtleties of phrasing with a nice simple blues?"

The question is rhetorical. The questioner is David Kraehenbuel, musical director and composer - in - residence at the New School for Music Study, and he has the answer right there in his curriculum.

Jazz music as a piano teaching tool is used at the New School on a parallel track with Chopin and Mozart, from the earliest pieces — the ones with those big notes — right up to the complex stuff the high school boys and girls can play.

"We don't teach jazz as an end itself," Mr. Kraehenbuel emphasizes, but there's a certain kind of music written especially to teach a certain thing about music, and we like to use jazz in that way. For example . . ."

Rhythm and Blues. And Mr. Kraehenbuel swings around on the piano bench that serves double duty as his desk chair, and plays one of the jazz pieces he has written as a teaching vehicle. He's written seven teaching books on jazz pieces.

"This one is '6.04 — East bound and Westbound' and its title goes back to the days when I was commuting between Princeton and Yale, and watching a couple of fast express - trains out at the Junction rooming by in opposite directions."

The piece sets a series of fast chords going down the keyboard against a syncopated bass. A lonely chord comes at the end —: "that's the last bit of dust in the air," the composer says with a grin.

"Weeping Willows" is the quiet blues that teaches the high - school youngster as much about the rudiments of phrasing and eantiable playing as he would learn from Chopin.

What's equally important, "Weeping Willows" is a piece a boy can play easily on the piano when his friends are banging around in somebody's living - room, and chances are somebody will listen for a minute and say, "Hey — that's great."

That Taiwan Twist. Closer to the beginner level, there is "Steam Hammer Stomp." Teaches you how to use your forearm to maintain a steady rhythm, and how to keep your hand in one shape. Youngsters in the second year of study, perhaps in fourth grade at school, love that one.

With "Taiwan Twist," you get the feel of the 6/8 beat. With "Falling Leaves," you have wonderful jazz harmonies, like the string of seventh and ninth chords.

Pedaling? Try "Cloudy Night." It teaches pedaling and rhythm control (don't rush the down beat!") and has some fine, fresh jazz harmonies.

"We use 'Jumpin' Jacks' to get the sloppy student to watch his rests," Mr. Kraehenbuel, who is not a sloppy student, stops those jumpin jacks at every rest.

Older students, in high school but still beginners at piano lessons, can play from an easy folk - rock book without feeling like some little kid "Folk Boy," an easy and highly repetitive piece, sounds just like WABC.

Older students in experience, play such difficult pieces as Dave Brubeck's "Blue Shadows in the Street," or the second movement of Samuel Barber's "Excursions," with its strong jazz element.

"We aren't giving kids these jazz pieces just for entertainment, you understand," and Mr. Kraehenbuel is consistently emphatic on this point. They serve precise teaching purposes and they keep the youngsters interested in driving toward the goal of learning to play the piano so well they con't need a teacher."

Some of the students respond to jazz more completely than others, naturally. A boy may take one of the jazz pieces in the book and re-work it to his own taste. Or he may compose his own, a natural enough development, since all New School pupils compose as part of their lessons.

"What it comes down to is this: we don't turn up our noses at any piece which has decent rhetoric. And besides, if, you say to a youngster 'Jazz is beneath your talents,' and refuse to let him play it —why, he's going to seek it out. And mostly, with our kids, the deeper, stronger music comes to the top in time, and the jazz slips away."

FOLK DANCE SERIES SET

By Ballet Society. Miss May Gadd, director of the County Dance Society of America, returns to Princeton on Saturday, February 25, to teach English country dances at the first of the folk-dance series sponsored by the Princeton Ballet Society. The session will be held at 8 p.m. in the Society's studio at 262 Alexander Street.

The program will include longways figures, reels, quadrilles, morris dances and others. Miss Gadd, who has led the Country Dance Society since 1957, is considered the outstanding English country dance authority in this country. Highly regarded as a teacher, she is often consulted by Broadway choreographers and was the subject of a New Yorker magazine profile a few years ago.

According to Audre Estey, director, "If you don't feel up to the more formal disciplines of ballet, modern or jazz dance, folk dance may provide you with just the recreational exercise you need. Because the Ballet Society is eager to promote interest in all forms of dance as an art, we are again offering a series of folk dance evenings taught by leaders in the various ethnic forms. I hope that many will be able to take advantage of this exceptional opportunity."

Admission at the door is $1 per person or $1.75 per couple. Dancers are asked to wear sneakers, ballet slippers or folk dance shoes.

RECITAL PLANNED

By Cohen and Helps. Isidore Cohen, violinist, and Robert Helps, composer-pianist will give a recital at 3:30 this Sunday in 10 McCosh Hall, sponsored by Princeton University and the Friends of Music at Princeton.

The program includes "Sonata in G Major," K. 379 by Mozart; "Vier Stuecke" Op. 7 1910 by Webern; the "Sonata in A Minor" Op. 105, by Schuincumbent in the Bain - Swigett Lectureship in Poetry. The lectureship was established, in the words of the donors "to contribute to the recovery of our powers as a nation to create and enjoy great poetry."

SALARY RANGE APPROVED

By Community College Trustees. A faculty salary schedule for 1967-68 has been approved by the board of trustees of Mercer County Community College.

The range will be: instructor, $7,000 to $9,400; assistant professor, $8,600 to $11,400; associate professor, $10,400 to $13,400; and professor, $12,400 to $16,400. Two additional ranges will be provided for non-tenured positions: teaching assistant f, $6,200 to $8,000 (requires a bachelor's degree where tenure asks for a masters degree) and laboratory assistant, $5,500 to $7,000 (requires an associate degree.

Administrators will be appointed on a 12-month basis, in certain cases, they will receive a salary differential over their faculty salary.

STUDDED TIRES ALLOWED

By Motor Vehicle Agency. Studded tires will not be banned in the State of New Jersey. The Director of the Division of Motor Vehicles made the decision after completing a study of materials submitted by the New Jersey Department of Transportation.

While reports indicate that studded tires do cause abnormal wear on the road surface, the study showed that such wear is more than offset by the added safety of the tires. As a result there will be no significant change in the regulation permitting their use in New Jersey.

A few changes will be made in the minium approval standards for the 1967-68 winter season. Manufacturers are being asked to submit their views.

HADASSAH PLANS SERIES

On Foreign Policy Issues. The Princeton Chapter of Hadassah will hold a series of group seminars in the coming weeks on such current problems as "The Spread of Nuclear Weapons," "Nato in Crisis?" and "The War on Hunger." The topics are part of a study series entitled "Great Decisions—1967" that has already covered subjects on "India and Pakistan" and "Communist China and the United States."

Those participating include Mesdames Melvin Schulman, Israel Heilweil, Sanford Aronovic, Mark Goldenberg, Arthur Fein, Jules Schaeffer, Stephen Bender, Martin Rome, Marvin Soffen, Louis Lavine, Bernard Gerb and Howard Farmer.

Also, Mesdames Max Weiss, Robert Brownstein, Alan Brsude, Sherman Golomb, Robert Bergman, James A. Wachtel, Myron Kauffman, Stanley Pilshaw, David Atkin, Benson Carlin, Jack Rubin, Bernard Caras and Walter Stephen.

FASHION SHOW SET

As Day School Benefit. The Princeton Day School will receive the proceeds from a fashion show and tea to be held at the school on The Great Road on Friday, March 3, at 3. Miss Fine's School Alumnie Association is in charge of the arrangements.

Mrs. Stuart Duncan II will narrate the fashion show. Modeling the clothes will be alumnae of Miss Fine's School and pupils at Princeton Day School. The show will be staged by Bellows, women's and children's shop in Princeton.

Officers of the fashion show committee are: Mrs. William H. von Oehsen, chairman; Mrs. G. Reginald Bishop, vice-chairman; Mrs. Robert A. Naunman, secretary; and Mrs. Michael P. Erdman, treasurer.

Assisting the officers are: Mrs. James P. Crisfield, models; Mrs. Sydney G. Stevens, tickets; Mrs. Frederick S. Osborne publicity; Mrs. John C. Diethenn, invitations; Mrs. Thomas B. P. Alsop, refreshments; Mrs. John C. Van Cleve, hostesses; Mrs. Dorothy Gorman and Mrs. Ernst H. Below, staging.

FIRE REPORT ISSUED

By Lawrenceville Chief. William C. Eggert, Chief of the Lawrenceville Fire Company, has released his annual report. Mr. Eggert also announced the company's new officers.

They are: Thomas Ford, president; Fred Bentley, III, vice-president; William McCurroll, secretary; and Leonard Venner, treasurer. Serving as trustees will be Thomas Buxton, Frank Reading and John Maple.

During the past year, 63 men responded to 68 fires and two false alarms. Three of the men suffered injuries. Mr. Eggert estimates that his company spent a total of 1,151 man - hours, or about 44 days, at the scene of fires.

Of the 68 fires, 23 were in buildings and 28 were either grass or rubbish fires. Multiple alarms were sent in for 15 of the blazes. Arson was suspected in seven cases.

The Lawrenceville company also had 22 recorded drills to

DIRECTOR AND FRIEND: Young Toby Savage of McCarter Theatre and the John Witherspoon School, listens attentively to Michael Schultz, director of McCarter's "Waiting for Godot." Toby plays The Boy in Samuel Beckett's play.

PEOPLE In The News

Toby Savage, 11-year-old son of Mrs. Carol Savage, 32 Edwards Place, portrays The Boy in McCarter Theatre's current repertory production of "Waiting for Godot."

It is Toby's first stage experience, professional or otherwise. The sixth-grader at John Witherspoon School hasn't even been in school productions before.

He comes, however, from a theatre family. Mrs. Savage, now a member of the staff of the public relations department at Princeton University, played in repertory in London for many years after training in London theatre schools. She also acted in New York, and did bit parts in movies.

Now that he's had a taste of theatre, Toby is eager for more, even though it means doing homework right after school before checking in at the stage door for the evening performance.

In his role as Godot's young messenger, Toby wears old play clothes. He applies his own make-up and shares a dressing room with Mark Aiaimo, who plays "Lucky" in the same play.

Dr. John W. Milnor, Henry Putnam University Professor of Mathematics at Princeton, was one of 11 scientists and engineers to receive the National Medal of Science earlier this month at the White House. Milnor was cited for his "clever and ingenious approaches in topology which have solved long outstanding problems. . ."

Dr. Rowland A. Egger, Professor of Politics and Public Affairs at Princeton, will spend this summer lecturing in political science at the National University in the Northeast, Corrientes, Argentina. His lecture series was made under the Department of State's Educational and Cultural Exchange Program.

A member of Princeton University's Department of Philosophy since 1947, Dr. Walter Kaufmann, is one of six contributors to a new book concerned with the promise philosophy holds for education. Entitled, "Philosophy and Educational Development" it is intended for use in university courses.

Martin P. Lombardo, 329 Nassau Street, has been appointed to the staff of the Division on Civil Rights. He will be assigned to the education Bureau of the civil rights agency as a field representative. Mr. Lombardo, after attending Trenton Junior College, was graduated from Rider College with a degree in business administration.

George F. Brinkerhoff has been named to the Honor Roll at the Hill School for his kerhoff is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George F. Brinkerhoff Jr., of Belle Mead.

Mary Ann Cook, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Alfred S. Cook Jr., 242 Prospect Avenue, has made the Beaver College basketball team. Miss Cook, who graduated from Princeton High School last year, is majoring in sociology at Beaver.

Carl L. Danbury, Lawrenceville has met the requirements for membership in the Leaders Club of the Midland Mutual Life Insurance Company. The Club is an honorary group of Midland Mutual associates who led the company's field force in new insurance sales last year.

Marine Lance Corporal William W. Johnston, son of Mr. and Mrs. Christian W. Johnston of Belle Mead, has reported for duty in Viet Nam. He has been assigned to the Headquarters Battalion of the First Marine Division near Da Nang.

Marine Private Francis S. Mihacik, son of Frank S. Mihacik of Kingston, is now serving at the Marine Corps Supply Center in Barstow, Calif. The center is responsible for supplying Marine Corps units in the Far East.

Thomas P. Root, Aqueduct Road, has been named Director of Princeton University's Food Services Department. He replaces Arnold W. Strohkorb, 63 McCosh Circle, who has resigned to become director of the dining program at the University of Illinois.

Mr. Root assumes the responsibility of feeding 1600 freshmen and sophomores and 500 graduate students. A graduate of Cornell University's School of Hotel Administration, Mr. Root has been Assistant Director of Food Services since 1960.

Laurioda Good, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Good of 50 Littlebrook Road, has received a third-class radiotelephone operator's license. A freshman at Centenary College for women, Miss Good passed a Federal Communication Commission examination as part of a course in radio-television. She is now qualified to help run the college radio station.

Carl Morgenstern, son of Mr and Mrs. Oskar Morgenstern, 94 Library Place, and Theodore Sieja, son of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley S. Sieja, 149 Terhune Road, have been added to the roster of Princeton University's fencing team. Mr. Morgenstern, a Princeton High School graduate, fences epee, and Mr. Sieja, a Hun School graduate, fences foil.

Robert J. Wright, 218 Prospect Avenue, has been selected by his company, American Metal Climax Inc., to attend the spring session of Harvard Business School's Advanced Management Program. Mr. Wright is vice-president of Amax Exploration, Inc., an organization that searches the world for mineral deposits.

by Henry P. Van Dusen

It has been assumed that there was little or no relation between Dag Hammarskjold, the man of the world, and the inner man. This book shows that the two aspects of this remarkably gifted human being were intimately related, that neither can be rightly understood without the other. It is the relation between the public servant and the inner person which holds the focus of attention throughout. So skillfully are Hammarskjold's public addresses and private letters interwoven with passages from "Markings," that the reader will feel it is Hammarskjold himself who is speaking to him.

The author, Henry P. Van Dusen is the former president of Union Theological Seminary, New York, and the author of many books.

NEW PLANS DRAWN

At Building Center, Remodeling and modernization will be the sole way of life at The Building Center, Princeton Junction, after next week.

Known throughout the region for shelving, paint, nailed two-by-fours, The Building Center will give up all its lumber-yard work and concentrate on remodeling jobs after February 23. The change will begin right at home, because Samuel Pillsbury, who bought the Center in 1958, plans to remodel his Mill into a two-story office building and erect a professional-research office building at the south end of his two and one-half acre.

J. Robert Hillier, architect, is working on preliminary plans for these changes. The West Windsor Township area in which The Building Center is located is zoned industrial-research.

The Building Center will offer a complete building and renovation service, including kitchens, roof work, aluminum siding and storm windows, conversion of attics and garages to living space, and so on.

C. "Bud" Carnevale, will remain with the Center as construction manager. Mr. Carnevale has had 12 years experience in the building field.

YMCA TO AID INVESTORS

With Basic Finance Course. Donald P. O'Brien, account executive for Merrill, Lynch, Fenner and Smith, will again teach a Princeton YMCA course in basic finance, entitled "Understanding Investments." The course will consist of weekly two-hour sessions at 8 p. m. beginning Tuesday, February 28, and running through Tuesday, March 21.

The series will cover types of securities, how the Stock Exchange works, how to read a financial report, where an investor secures proper information and determining whether income stock affords adequate protection of an investment. Those interested should sign up at the YMCA.

ART EXHIBITION SET

By Princeton Jaycees. R. William Miller, Chairman of the Princeton Jaycees Eighth Annual Art Show, expects well over 300 works of art to be on display when the show is held April 1 and 2 at the YM-YWCA. During the show a jury will award prizes to the three best amateur works.

The primary purpose of the event is to excite interest and participation in the arts. Since the show's inception in 1960, more than 1200 works have been exhibited to the community.

The show is open to all amateur and professional artists in Princeton. Those wishing to participate should write the Princeton Jaycees, Box 324, Princeton.

TIGERS TURNED STALE?

This Weekend Will Tell. A Princeton basketball team that has been in deep trouble in its last three Ivy League games—two of them against last-place opposition — will find out this weekend whether the pace of the long season is ready to take its toll.

In their final road swing of the campaign, the Tigers play a weakened Columbia quintet (8-11 on the season) in New York Friday and then head for Ithaca to meet second-place Cornell (16-3) Saturday night. It was there that Bill Bradley's 1964-65 team lost its only Ivy game, 70 to 69, on a jump shot in the final three seconds by Blaine Aston currently the Cornell captain.

Scrimmaging informally since early October and now in its fourth straight month of formal practice and pressure-packed games, the Princeton quintet may be about to learn that the strain of maintaining a long winning streak and a place in the nation's top ten is adversely affecting its play. In contrast to the 18 weeks that a basketball season lasts, from the ball from first day of practice to final game is over in 11, and lacrosse in the spring in ten.

Such an intangible factor can loom large in a team's stamina and ability, particularly when the schedule sends it against such eastern leaders as Villanova and Army, and such nationally-recognized quintets as Davidson, Louisville and North Carolina in its first month of action. The peak required to achieve a magnificent 9-1 record against opposition of this sort before the drawnout Ivy League race even begins is extremely difficult to maintain.

Statistics Tell the Tale. How else to account for the fact that last-place Harvard out-shot the Tigers on their own floor? Why, otherwise, should a Brown team, also tied for the cellar, lead Princeton with 1.05 to go — largely because the wearying Tigers suddenly saw their season-long shooting average of 52% plummet all the way down to 39%?

Momentum can go both ways, and the slide down hill that Princeton's proficiency has taken in the last fortnight will be difficult to reverse, particularly at Ithaca. It was, incidentally, only a year ago that the end of the season proved disastrous to a Tiger quintet which was very much in the race at mid-February, but finished by losing four of its last five games.

The Winning Touch. If they have scared themselves and their followers badly by barely winning, 81-80, over Yale, and 57-54, over Brown, the Tigers have at least run their winning streak to 11, their season's record to a brilliant 19-1, and can still be the first team in Ivy history to win all 14 games in a season. At New Haven and again at Providence, they came from behind in the closing minutes on foul shooting ability, and then hung on to a vulnerable one-point lead in the last heart-thumping ten seconds because their defense was good enough to keep the home team from getting a decent shot at the basket.

There was much similarity to the two games, even though Yale is far superior to Brown. Friday night at New Haven, Princeton took a 43-35 lead at the half-time buzzer, twice led by 14 points in the second half, but blew it completely and trailed by three (79-76) with 2:08 to go. Next evening, the Tigers had a 33-28 lead at the intermission, but saw a Brown team that they had walloped by 20 points a week before rip off ten straight points when play resumed. With 2:30 to go, the home team had a 54-53 lead and possession — a formula than can spell upset in three-inch headlines.

At New Haven, the Tigers bailed themselves out this way:

Coach Bill van Breda Kolff's technical foul (for barking too loudly at referee Duke Maronde) enabled the Elis to take a three-point lead when Rick Stoner converted the free throw and followed with a 25-foot basket because the Elis retained possession after the technical. Chris Thomforde narrowed the margin on a hook but missed the three-point play that would have brought Princeton even.

Yale captain Rick Johnson was fouled, making the first on a one and one, missing the second (after the Elis had converted 22 straight from the foul line), and the Tigers grabbed the rebound. With 1:33 left, Joe Heiser hit on a jumper from the side to make it 80-all.

Yale came down court, faced with the opportunity of killing the clock and taking one shot to win, but John Hanlow intercepted a pass for one of the more important plays of his standout season. Princeton now froze for 64 seconds, called time out and, with ten seconds left, Gary Walters drove down the keyhole. Fouled as he shot, he missed the first but converted the second and the Tigers had a one-point lead with eight seconds left.

Again it was Hanlow who made the victory possible. Sensing a Yale play to feed the hot shooting Rick Stoner (27 points on the night), he switched off his man-to-man assignment, blocked any attempt at a pass from Howie Dale to Stoner and, with the clock about to run out, forced Dale to shoot over his 6-7 frame and outstretched hands. The ball bounced off the rim, and the Tigers were home free.

At Providence, the drama ran this course:

After working deliberately down court with its 54-53 lead, Brown shook 6-5 Dave Gale loose within five feet of the basket but he missed. Thomforde, grabbing the rebound, was fouled by the big Bruin

Despite Change, Basketball Follows a Pattern

Although no Princeton basketball team has been nationally-ranked before, the perilous course the current Tiger quintet is following is by no means unprecedented. So far this year, Princeton has won four Ivy League games by margins ranging from 1 to 4 points: Yale, 77-75 and 81-80; Penn, 70-66; and Brown, 57-54.

But remember the 1950 team — the first of half a dozen that the late Cappy Cappon steered to first-place finishes? Over a period of just ten days, they won four in a row by exactly two points and then proceeded to blow the next one wide open, winning by three.

On February 13 in Dillon Gym, they beat Cornell, 51-48, and two days later edged Columbia, 50-48. On the 18th, they went to Ithaca and proved their first two-point triumph over the Red was no fluke by duplicating the margin, this time, 44 to 42. On Washington's Birthday, the team that Bernie Adams captained knocked off Yale at New Haven, 51-49, and three days later repeated against the Elis here, 54 to 51. Len Koppett, now with The New York Times, called the three-point triumph, coming on the heels of four in a row by two points, "a rocking chair rout."

The record book also shows that the 1967 Yale-Princeton series, which saw the Tigers win two games by a total of three points, is not without precedent. The same margin separated the traditional rivals in 1930, the Elis winning that year in scores typical of the Depression Days: 25-24 and 22-20.

and converted both shots on a one-and-one.

The home team again froze, called a time out with 18 seconds left and set up a play to feed its top scorer, Bill Reynolds, who 18 on the evening represented almost a third of Brown's points. This time it was Heiser who anticipated the pass — from Al Fishman to Reynolds — and when Heiser intercepted cleanly, Fishman's frustration resulted in a deliberate foul that gave Heiser two shots. He converted both, putting the game out of range with three seconds left.

Cornell Scores Well. Like most Cornell teams of the past decade, the Ithacans have a high-scoring offense, and after nine games this season, they lead the Ivy League in this respect with 712 points to 684 for Princeton. Greg Morris, averaging 21 points in and out of league play and topping the lives in the individual scoring race, is the Red's best gun. He is 6-0 and a junior.

Much of Cornell's success this season comes from a pair of sophomores, 6-3 Hank South, averaging 15.8, and 6-5 Walt Esdaile, who contributes about 14 points a game. It is the 240-lb. Esdaile whom Chris Thomforde will face in the pivot position.

Gabby DurRae also in double figures with ten, and Captain Blaine Aston round out the starting quintet. An SRO crowd of 7,000 is assured for Barton Hall, where Cornell must win to keep Princeton from moving out of sight in the race. The Orange and Black's big advantage lies in the fact that whereas it defeated Yale at New Haven, Cornell did not and a split in the series is all Princeton needs to maintain its one-game lead in the standings.

Friday night in New York, the Tigers will face a Columbia team that knew it was in for a mediocre season when 7-1 Dave Newmark was lost for the year with infected tonsils. A fifth-place entry at best, the Lions (Like Harvard and Brown should not come within 25 points of Princeton, but in recent weeks, the underdogs haven't been reading the form charts.

YALE—WHAT, AGAIN? Four Times in One Season. It is apparently to be the misfortune of the Princeton hockey team that an opponent which appears on its schedule four times in two months can beat it on anybody's ice. To make matters more difficult for the Tigers, the Elis play them in New Haven Saturday night after having won three times elsewhere since late December.

The Blue took a 7-6 overtime struggle in the ECAC Holiday Festival before Christmas and then won, 5-2, in a New Year's Eve exhibition at West Orange. Saturday in Baker Rink, the story had a different beginning as Princeton moved out to a 2-0 lead, but the ending was the same: Yale 7, Princeton 3.

It could be that the fine showing the Tigers made just 48 hours earlier against Cornell left them without sufficient starch for the Blue. Holding the league-leading Ithacans to a 3-1 triumph and playing topflight hockey for close to 60 minutes, Princeton sailed into the Yale game with hopes high.

They were justified during the early going, particularly when the visitors, who had been bombed by Brown at midweek, 10-5, gave up on their two senior goalies and started as freshsophomore who hadn't even cotten program billing. Before five minutes were up, defenseman Bill Ramsay had beaten him on a 30-foot slap shot and center John Ritchie had flicked one in from close range.

Yale Takes Charge. During the next 55 minutes, however, the Tigers were outplayed, frequently to such a degree that they were outscored 6 to 1. They incurred a number of unnecessary penalties for such infractions as elbowing and checking in the offensive zone, and the visitors took advantage of several of these to score while they were a man long.

The Princeton lead had vanished before the first round ended, and at 5:36 of the second, the visitors went one up. Then it was Yale which was short-handed, and with two Bulldogs in the kettel, Jerry Kearney tipped in a blue-line shot by Ramsay that knotted the count for the last time.

The go-ahead goal was a 40-foot drive from the left alley that hit the far corner of the net behind Regan Kerney, and the Tigers slowly disintegrated thereafter. Their principal shortcomings were failure to pass to the lead man on attack and an afternoon-long tendency to take their eyes off the puck while clearing, passing or shooting. The result was woeful stickwork.

The visitors broke the game open in the third round, pulling steadily away from the slim 4-3 margin they held when the last 20 minutes began. If the Tigers weren't short when Yale scored, the Elis were blasting away at Regan Kerney without much in the way of hindrance.

A Cornell goal in the first 59 seconds was all the scoring in that game until early in the third period, but it never lacked for action. Excellent goal-tending by sophomore Ken Dryden, one of the best ever seen in his profession in Baker Rink, was all that thwarted the Tigers time and again.

They finally beat him at 13:15 of the final round, when Cornell was a man short and Terry Peterman banged in a rebound to climax a power play. The Tigers got 33 other shots on target, while Kerney took care of 41.

R. P. I. will play Princeton here Tuesday night at 8. The Tigers begin the current week with a 5-10 record and any chance of attaining the elusive .500 mark by season's end now out of sight.

Trenton Wins, 68-45. Such was not the case last week against Trenton. After staying with Trenton for the first half, which ended with the visiting Tornadoes ahead, 27-25, PHS collapsed in the second half. Trenton won its 10th game, 68-45.

Wood, who was effective under the boards in the first half, scored a game-high 19. Volz scored nine in the final period to finish with 13. No other Little Tiger made more than six points, while Trenton was placing four in double figures.

PDS FIVE ROUTED

By Bryn Athyn, 81-58. "Our first mistake was getting off the bus" So said a disappointed Dan Barren, Princeton Day School basketball coach, following his team's 81-58 setback at Bryn Athyn on Friday.

"It was no contest; we were never in the game," said Barren. "They executed the fast break very well and they just wrecked us with it. They have a good team, there's no doubt about it."

A 1-3-1 Bryn Athyn zone and a poor shooting performance by PDS combined to throttle the Blue and White attack. Bryn Athyn led, 42-25 at the half.

Bill Bigot led the losers with 15 points. Frank Andrews had 13, including 11 rebounds

Only 10 Fouls. With its superior height, Bridgewater did not have to fight as hard to gain control of the ball. As a result, it committed only 10 fouls during the game. PHS converted five of them, four by Rich Volz. The visitors, on the other hand, went to the foul line much more frequently and made good on 12 for the margin of victory.

Marty Hines had a hot hand for PHS from outside. He ended with 18, his high for the year. Two other Little Tigers contributed career highs. Ken Nelson with 10 and Al Moring with 13. Wood and Volz, the 1-2 in the PHS attack, tallied 20 and 12 respectively.

All in all, the home team played some of its best basketball all season. It was a tough one to lose.

PHS FINALE FRIDAY

Little Tigers at Hamilton. The long and frustrating season that has been the lot of the Princeton High School basketball team and its coach, Tony Borzok, will end Friday

The Little Tigers will play their 22nd and final game that night at 8 in the Hamilton High School gym. In all probability, they will go out as they began — a loser — since the Hornets are always tough on their home court, and they already own a victory over PHS here.

Should the Blue and White bow to Hamilton it will end with a 0-10 record in Group 4 Mercer County Basketball. It's been that kind of year.

Oddly enough, in its last start, PHS played well enough to win 95 out of 100 games. It scored 77 points, topping its previous high this season by five. Even more important, the team did not die in the second half as it has on a number of other occasions. As against 33 points in the first half, it came back to score 44. It also outscored its highly-rated opponent from the floor, 36 baskets to 35.

Yet it still lost, 82-77, to visiting Bridgewater Raritan (14-5). PHS was a victim more to the axiom that a good big team will best a good little team than it was to any deficiency of its own.

Six-foot, seven-inch Mike Janczewski of the Golden Falcons was just a little too much for the losers to handle. Mike scored a game high 24 points, but even more telling was his total of 21 rebounds. 11 more than Princeton's own big man, 6-5 Tom Wood, was able to pull down.

When they had the ball, the Little Tigers were hot — they had five men in double figures — but they just didn't have the ball often enough. Janczewski saw to that.

to lead in that department, while Rich Ross and Craig Page each had 10. Barren pointed out that all but three were shooting below their season's average.

Next will be a Friday meeting with Rutgers Prep at 3:30 at the PDS gym. On Tuesday, Montclair Academy will come to town to make up a contest which was wiped out by last week's snow storm.

Wednesday, the team will be in Hightstown for a contest with the Peddie Jayvees. Games are also scheduled for next Friday and Saturday—a total of four in five days.

PDS SKATERS WIN, 8-0 Over Lawrenceville Jayvees. With freshman forward Basil Stetson and sophomore Bill Chalveus, another forward, each contributing a hat trick, the Princeton Day School hockey team skated to an easy, 8-0 victory Friday over the visiting Lawrenceville School Jayvee sextet.

"It was a fairly good game for us," commented PDS coach Harry Rulon-Miller. "Unfortunately for Lawrenceville, two of its players before the game had been moved up to the varsity and another was unavailable.

"In a sense it was a mismatch. In the second half, I used mostly ninth-graders."

On Friday at 3:30, the Blue and White will entertain Peddie. "After that, things will get much livelier," said Rulon-Miller.

On Wednesday, his team will meet Cranford, which Rulon-Miller described as "one of the better teams in New Jersey," and next Friday, the 24th, it will meet its rival, PHS, in a rematch. Both games will be held at the new PDS rink.

HUN BLASTS PERKIOMEN To Even League Record. Exploding for 83 points, its high for the season, the Hun School basketball team stoned for an earlier setback by defeating Perkiomen Saturday the Seminary gym, 83 to 53. "We're improving," said Hun coach Dave Lecte.

The victory, coupled with Wednesday's 55 to 41 triumph over Pennington, evened Hun's Penn-Jersey League record at 5-5. Overall, the Red and Black is 6-5.

Only two contests remain: a Friday meeting with Admiral Farragut in the Seminary gym at 3:15, and a final league contest with George School. The latter will be held Wednesday in the Seminary gym. A meeting with Blair later in the month is still tentative.

In all, 10 Hun players crashed the scoring column against Perkiomen, four reaching double figures. Freshman Mike Maguire led with 21. Don Silverson contributed 18, Nat Williams, 17, and Karl Harter, 14. Like Maguire, all are underclassmen.

Silverson Get 25. Silverson single-handedly wrecked Pennington's chances for success in the league, as the sophomore standout hit for 25 points in last Wednesday's meeting with the Red Raiders at Pennington. That was almost half his team's total of 55 and only 16 less than Pennington's 41.

Maguire hooked Silverson with a 32-point performance, and Williams and Harter combined for 17 more.

BOWLING NOTES

King Pins Take Lead. Led by Mike Skillman's 216-179-174 (569) and Ken Grob's 181-173-164 (518) the King Pins last week wrenched the lead from Taps, 32-28, in the Blue Angels high roller league. Taps had led throughout the season. Hi-Lo's and Exports are even with 24 each.

There is also a new leader in the Tri-County Firemen's league. Plainsboro, in a three-way tie for second last week, now tops Mercer No. 3, the former leader, 26-24. Four are tied for third place with 22 points apiece—Princeton No. 1, Kingston, Duteh Neck and K. F. D.

Bill Wesp had the highest single game, a 243 which he preceeded with a 204. Most consistent rifleman was Welly Brown. He rolled 199-210-200 for a 609.

Bip Davison had 222 and John Burke, 209. Rolling a pair of fine games were Stan Tamium, 191-197, Norman Lock, 192-202; and Bill Davall, 191-201.

There were three 600 series in the B League where Balestrieri Contractor maintained its first-place lead. Al Hibbard had 163-243-211 (617); Bill Penelli, 198-236-178 (612); and Jim Kahny, 175-222-205 (602).

Fred Procaccini claimed the highest single game for the week in all leagues, a 245. Rudy Lehenrt had 233 and Frank Delneso, 212. Joe Baldine cooled somewhat in "dropping" to a 208-204.

Trailing Balestrieri are Nassau Del, 26 points—four behind—and Princeton Del and Steffanelli, 24 and 22.

Colonial Restaurant failed to win any points in the Three-Man Classic league but it still has a 42-35 margin over Procaccini Contractors. Deeker's Dairy and Farr Hardware are tied for third with 32 points.

EXHIBITION BOOKED

In Basketball at PHS. The Harlem Diplomats of Canada, a basketball team, will play members of the Princeton High School faculty Saturday evening at 8 in the high school gym.

Billed as similar to the Harlem Globetrotters, the Diplomats feature a young ball handler named Goose Jr. He is reported to be the most popular player in Canada.

Tickets, which will be available at the door, cost $1 for students and $1.25 for adults. The event is being sponsored by the Princeton High School Athletic Association.

SKATERS TOP MONTCLAIR

But Lose to Cranford. It was win one, lose one last week for Pete Cook's Princeton High School hockey team.

Monday, in a makeup contest with Montclair High School, the Little Tigers (6-3) came from behind twice to defeat Montclair, 4-1. "It was a pretty good ball game, really," said Cook. Three of Princeton's goals came in the final period.

High-scoring Paul Rice started the final period assault by scoring on an assist from his younger brother, John, and Henry Sommers. His goal tied the score at 2-2.

Then defenseman Peter Starbuck scored the go-ahead goal on a rebound off a shot by Rich Favreau. Sommers followed with his second tally of the night, his shot coming near the end of the game with an assist by John Rice.

Sommers had scored first, unassisted, in the first period to earn PHS a 1-1 tie. Then the visitors went ahead in the same period, 2-1. There was no scoring in the second 15 minutes of play.

"We played better than we have in our last three or four games," said Cook. "We carried the game to Livingston. The defense did very well, too. I thought Pete Starbuck played his best game of the year by far."

Cook added that the first line had skated better than before, and improvement he felt was traceable to switching Bobby Linder to center and moving Sommers and Paul Rice to wing.

Lose to Cranford. On Friday, at the Princeton Day School rink, the Cranford Hockey Club defeated PHS, 4-1.

Princeton lone goal — it was the game's final score — was the product of Rich Favreau, a freshman and a member of the third line.

Cranford entered the contest with the reputation of being one of the stronger hockey clubs in the state. However, it was his own team that failed to offer Cook. "I wasn't impressed with my boys," he said.

CITED FOR "BEST GAME": Pete Starbuck, senior defense man for the PHS skaters was cited by his coach for "playing his best game by far," against Montclair H.S.

MATMEN LOSE FAIR

On the Road. Failure of his boys to make weight — as many as four in one bout — plus attrition caused by the flu added up to some king-size headaches for Princeton High School wrestling coach Tom Murray — and two defeats.

Monday at South Brunswick High School, the Blue and White suffered a 30-8 reversal. Against Perth Amboy on Friday at Hightstown, it was defeated, 25-11. The double setback lowered its record to 3-8.

Murray reported that four boys failed to make their weight class at South Brunswick. That was tantamount to giving up 20 points. As a result, Murray was forced to make a flurry of adjustments, which consisted mainly of forcing boys to wrestle in higher weight classes.

"You might say we're experiencing growing pains," commented Murray. "Once the boys get into the routine of knowing what they have to do if they want to be a wrestler, then we will settle down somewhat."

John Barclay, 136 pounder, and Hank Wilkinson (115 lbs.) each won decisions at South Brunswick. Sy Lang and his opponent wrestled to a draw in the 157-lb class.

By winning, Wilkinson increased his record this year to 3-1-1, tops among all the Little Tigers. Murray reports that Hank has the ability to do extremely well at the district matches which will start Friday at Hunterdon Central. Murray plans to enter a full team.

At Peddie, Wilkinson, Sam Procaccini (130-lb) and Lang all won decisions. Heavyweight Rick Sisco battled to a draw in his match.

Again, PHS was hurt when its 141 and 148-pound entries failed to make their weights. It also had to forfeit the 106 lb. match when Bobby Arcaro was sidelined with the flu.

FLYING FISH SPLIT

Girls Win, Boys Lose. In swim meets last week, the girls' team of the YMCA Flying Fish defeated West Essex YMCA, 118 to 83, and the boys bowed to Westfield, 127 to 63. For the girls, it was their seventh win in nine meets; the boys have now lost eight of nine.

The final dual meets for both teams will be held this weekend. The girls will entertain Madison, while the boys will travel to Passic-Clifton.

Among the winners for the girls were Jill Agadjanian, diving; Debbie O'Hara, Margaret Jillson, Carrie Bolster, Janet Lasley and Vicky Mezey (freestyle; Karen Ryan, Debbie Ryan and Pat Hector, breaststroke; Robin Barry and Joanne Schwartz, backstroke) and Dede Henneman and Martha Lasley, butterfly.

Robin Barry, Karen Ryan, Dede Henneman and Dedrie O'Hara won the medley relay for girls 10 and under. Peggy Jabay, Debbie Ryan, Jane Fremon and Jill Agadjanian won the 13-14 year medley relay.

For the boys, winners were Robert Meusel, freestyle, Chuck Hector, Winston White and Wilbur Crell, breaststroke; and Billy Cook, butterfly.

David Mancino, Andrew Bolster, Billy Cook and Chuck Hector triumphed in the medley relay for boys 9 to 10. Robert Poinsett, Wilbur Crell, Richard Morgan and Robert Meusel won the same race for boys 15 to 17.

mann: "Fantasy for Violin and Piano" (1963) by Mr. Helps and the "Sonata quasi Violon et Piano" (1916-17) by Debussy. Admission is free.

The two artists have appeared together in recital before. Mr. Helps has just recorded "New Music for the Piano" for RCA Victor. Mr. Cohen, recently with the Juilard String Quartet, is a well-known performer and teacher in New York City.

CLEVELANDERS HERE Tuesday In McCarter. For the past several seasons, the Cleveland Orchestra has been featured on Series I programs on alternate years. The excellence they bring to their performances has made their presence eagerly awaited by Princeton concertgoers.

The orchestra returned to McCarter Theatre Tuesday night with their renowned conductor, George Szell, and as usual, their playing left very little to be desired. The program consisted of Mozart's "Jupiter" Symphony, William Walton's "Variations on a Theme by Hindemith" and the "Rhenish" Symphony by Robert Schumann.

It is a pleasure to watch Mr. Szell conduct. He is a meticulous craftsman with the baton and an unscrupulous pedant when it comes to details.

A performance by the Cleveland Orchestra under Szell almost always is one of precision, clarity and balance. Sometimes, Mr. Szell has been accused of lacking warmth in his interpretations and one could make a case for the prosecution regarding Mr. Szell's attitude to Mozart's "Symphony No. 41 in C."

The first movement lacked power and rhythmic drive. It failed to move. Yet all the details were there.

The second and third movements were immaculately played. It is a pleasure to hear an orchestra whose every solo, representing each section, is brought off as a model of perfection.) But even in the two middle movements, one would have preferred a bit more emotional involvement.

The Finale, under Mr. Szell's direction, produced details, motifs and fragments that are often glossed over in other interpretations. But again the orchestra played as if they were being held back. Despite the beauty of the playing then, the Mozart Symphony did not receive a compelling a performance as I have heard in the past.

The "Variations on a Theme by Hindemith" by the contemporary English composer, William Walton, is an example of what happens when one writes too much movie music. The theme by Hindemith is perhaps the loveliest thing about the piece which immediately starts to disintegrate in Variation 1.

The music is simply too predictable, being laden with one cliche after another, the worst of which is the composer's fascination with a section in the third movement of Hindemith's Symphony from "Mathis der Maler", having nothing to do with the "theme" in the first place. That the music is well written or effectively orchestrated does not preclude that the experience will be altogether absorbing or eventful.

This is a quite typical case of a composer following a formula that allows his uncreative energies to display a polished technique and nothing more. There were sweet sounds to be sure, but the meaningful and the artistic were not attained. The orchestra played superbly but the superficial nature of the music could not be swept under the rug by the polished interpretation Mr. Szell's forces gave.

The concluding work, Schumann's "Symphony No. 3 in E Flat, Op. 97," was the crowning achievement by both Mr. Szell and the orchestra. This is a great symphony, not to be ranked with those of Brahms perhaps, but truly inspired and beautifully worked out.

The orchestration is marvelous and since I do not believe Mr. Szell uses Mahler's retouching up of this particular score, one can only question those who criticize Schumann's inability to orchestrate effectively. As for the performance, what can one say? It was simply magnificent.

Mr. Szell is an uncanny technician with the baton and he never demonstrated this better than during the Schumann. Not only was every detail brought forth, but the choirs of the orchestra were perfectly balanced despite McCarter Theater's horrible backdrop, which hardly improves the acoustics for orchestra performances. In addition, the interpretation was expressive, warm and emotionally satisfying.

TENOR TO GIVE RECITAL At Westminster College. John Craig, New York City Opera tenor, will give a recital at Westminster Choir College Tuesday at 8 in the college's playhouse.

Mr. Craig has been a member of the New York City Opera since 1962 when he first auditioned for it. A versatile performer with more than 30 operatic roles in his repertoire, he has been engaged by the Metropolitan Opera for the premiere season of its touring company.

MODERN CONCERT SET Miss Beardsley To Solo. The Contemporary Chamber Ensemble, led by Arthur Weisberg, will give a concert at 8:30 p.m. on Friday, February 24, in the Woolworth Center of Musical Studies. The music department at Princeton University is sponsor.

Soloists will include Bethany Beardslee, soprano; Paul Zukofsky, violinist; Gilbert Kalish, pianist, and Thomas D. Nyfenger, flutist. The Ensemble is in residence at Rutgers University under a grant from the Rockefeller Foundation.

The program includes two compositions by Earl Kim, associate professor of music at Princeton, "Dead Calm" (1963) and "They Are Far Out" (1966), both to be sung by Miss Beardslee. John Harbison, who received his MFA from Princeton Music Department and currently holds a Harvard Junior Fellowship will be represented on the program by "Confinement" (1965), a fourpart chronicle for 12 players after texts by John Donne.

Also scheduled to be heard are "Serenata I" (1957) by Berio, with Mr. Nyfenger as soloist and the "Kammerkonzert" (1923-25) by Alban Berg, a "classic" of contemporary music. The concert is free.

OFFICERS ELECTED By Animal Rescue League. At its annual meeting Tuesday at the YM-YWCA, the Small Animal Rescue League elected officers for the coming year. Members of the board of directors were also chosen.

The new officers are: Mrs. Stuart Willson, 65 Westerly Road, president; Mrs. Josephine H. Mathey, the Great Road, first vice-president; Mrs. Hamilton Cutler, 4 Orchard Circle, second vice-president; Mrs. T. Burnet Fisher, 542 Snowden Lane, secretary; and William C. Caffrey, 213 Lakeside Boulevard, treasurer.

Elected to the board of directors were Dean Jeremiah Finch, Mrs. Elwood Godfrey, Mrs. Charles B. Haman and Mrs. William Koren. Other new members are Mrs. Frank Mountcastle, Dean William d' O. Lippincott, Mrs. Stuyvesant Pierrepont and Richard Snedeker.

On the agenda was a report from Mrs. Ailery C. Graves, director of adoption. She announced an exceptionally large number of pets had been placed in homes during the past year, three clinics for dogtatooing had been sponsored, and the spaying program of the league was in operation.

News Of The CHURCHES

RESPONSE IS SLOW

To Peace Petition. Nearly 300 churchgoers have signed the petition circulated in Princeton by the New Jersey Clergy and Laymen Concerned About Viet Nam. The petitions were available at the churches for the past two weeks.

"I'm a little bit discouraged, but I am very encouraged by the number of the ministers here who sponsored the petition," Mrs. Sheldon Hackney of the Unitarian Church said in an interview. She had served as local co-ordinator for the group.

"Maybe the ministers are ahead of their churches, or afraid of imposing their ideas on their congregations."

The petition asks the United States Government to submit "the entire Viet Nam issue to the adjudication and supervision of the United Nations, under the stated proposals of Secretary-General U Thant." It calls for an end of North Viet Nam bombing, a steadfast in military buildup to provide a climate for negotiations and recognition of the National Liberation Front (Viet Cong) as a participant in the negotiations.

According to Mrs. Hackney, one Princeton clergyman told her that since there are so many ministers who are concerned with the issue there should be a ministerial statement to the community. He also suggested study groups on the Viet Nam issue.

Clergymen sponsoring the petition were the Rev. Harry I. Lauer, vicar of All Saints' Chapel; Rabbi Everett Gendler of the Jewish Center; the Rev. Rowland J. Cox, Episcopal chaplain at Princeton University; Rev. Robert L. Cope and Rev. J. Howard Middleton Jr., both of the Unitarian Church; Rev. Walter P. Cavia, Presbyterian Baptist Church at Penns Neck; Also, Rev. Harold Thomas of Witherspoon Street Presbyterian Church, Canon Robert R. Spears Jr., rector of Trinity Episcopal Parish; Rev. Marion Stokes, Mt. Pisgah A. M. E. Church; the Rev. Paul Luther Kriefall of Messiah Lutheran Church and Dean Ernest Gordon of Princeton University Chapel. The Princeton Fellowship of Reconciliation was also a sponsor.

The petition will be presented to the New Jersey congressmen within the next few weeks.

OFFICERS ELECTED

By Lawrenceville Church. Stephen Cooper has been named president of the trustees of Lawrenceville Presbyterian Church for the coming year. Dr. Cureton Harris will serve as president of the board of deacons, and Lee A. Wiley is the newly-elected clerk of the session.

New members of the session are Charles Clowes, Dr. William Cooper, Frederick Gilman, Mrs. Charles Hullfish Sr. and the Rev. Dr. D. Campbell Wyckoff.

Elected to the board of trustees are Dr. Donald Barthelme, Dr. Wynford Harries, Chase Porter and Sydney Souter. New deacons are Carl Danbury, Thomas Ford, James Holden, Mrs. Gordon Malbury, Paul McNelly, Thomas McLernon and John Whalen.

Ray Arrowsmith, Mrs. Raymond Dean and Mrs. Kenneth Webster will serve as the nominating committee. Michael Barbiere, Herbert Hurley and Mrs. Paul McNelly are the new auditing committee.

PLAN MEN'S DAY

At Witherspoon Church. The Rev. Dr. Gaylaud Wilmore of Mt. Lucas Road, executive director of the National Commission on Religion and Race for the United Presbyterian Church, will speak at the 11 a.m. Men's Day service Sunday in Witherspoon Street Presbyterian Church.

Princeton football coach Dick Colman showed films of the highlights of Princeton's basketball and football teams at the club's membership rally on Saturday in the church hall. Jim Floyd Jr., a Princeton undergraduate, entertained with several folk songs.

VIET NAM PETITIONS circulated in many churches on Sunday, and signers at the Unitarian Church included (from left) Mrs. Sheldon Hackney, Mrs. Peter Pattinson and Henry Aiken. Sponsors are the New Jersey Clergy and Laymen Concerned About Vietnam. Mrs. Hackney is local co-ordinator. The petition calls for an immediate halt in the bombing of North Viet Nam, a military "steadfast," Viet Cong admission to the peace table and the submission of the Viet Nam Issue to the United Nations. Obituaries

Porcaro and Mrs. Renata Lupo of Princeton, Mrs. Anna DeMeglio and Mrs. Clara Toto of Lawrenceville; a sister, Mrs. Carmela Cuomo of Princeton, and eight grandchildren.

Requiem high mass was celebrated in St. Paul's Church. Interment was in the parish cemetery under direction of the Kimble Funeral Home.

Mrs. Emma B. Chinard, 83, of 93 Mercer Street, died on February 8 at the Meadow Lakes Nursing Care Center, Hightstown. She was the wife of Prof. Gilbert Chinard, Pyne Professor of French Literature, Emeritus, at Princeton University.

Mrs. Chinard was born in Marsac, France. Active in war relief work during World War I, she had taught at Smith College and Moses Brown School in Providence, R.I. Her husband, a noted authority on the history and literature of France, retired from the Princeton faculty in 1950.

Also surviving are a son, Dr Francis P. Chinard; a daughter, Mrs. M. Winston Clement; five grandchildren and a sister Mrs. Emilie Dollez.

The service was private, with arrangements made by the Mather Funeral Home. Contributions may be made to the United Fund of Princeton.

Mrs. Josephine P. Harwood, 66, of 10 Orchard Circle, died on February 11 in Princeton Hospital after a brief illness. She was the wife of Floyd C. Harwood, a chemist with the Lawrenceville School classics department.

A native of Omaha, Neb., Mrs Harwood was a graduate of Wellesley College, Class of 1902 to the annual collector, she was a member of the American Numismatic Society as well as a fellow of the Royal Numismatic Society of England. She was also active in the Women's Club of Lawrenceville, Trinity Episcopal Church and the Archaeological Institute of America. Her first husband was Dr. Leslie T. Shear, a Princeton University archaeologist who died in 1945.

Also surviving are a son, T. Leslie Shear of Bryn Mawr, Pa.; a brother, John P. Pitner of Detroit, Mich.; four step-daughters and 11 grandchildren.

The service was held in Trinity Episcopal Church, Canon Robert R. Spears Jr. officiating. Interment was in Lawrenceville Cemetery.

Howard Klockner, 78, of Federal City Road, Lawrence Township, former Mercer County road supervisor, died on February 11 in Princeton Hospital after a brief illness. He was the husband of the late Florence E. Klockner.

Born in Trenton, Mr. Klockner lived in this area all of his life. He retired as road supervisor for Mercer County in 1955. He was active in Lawrence Township politics and at one time served as chairman of the Lawrence Township Committee.

Surviving are three sons, Walter D., Norman B. and Donald M.; all of Lawrence Township; two daughters, Mrs. Virginia Hopkins of Lawrence Township and Mrs. Doris Smith of New Hope, Pa.; 17 grandchildren, one great-grandchild; two brothers, Russell of Cape May and Jacob of Mountain Lakes, and two sisters, Mrs. Elizabeth Mackenzie of Pennington and Mrs. Mildred Steiner of Mercerville.

A private service was held in Trenton. Interment was in Greenwood Cemetery.

Mrs. Helen A. E. Gardner died on February 11 at the home of her daughter, Mrs. William H. Van Riper of 131 Red Hill Road, after a lengthy illness.

Born in London, England, she lived in New York City for 26 years before moving to Princeton nine months ago.

Also surviving are a son, John C. Gardner of Leonia; seven grandchildren; and three sisters, Mrs. T. C. Van-Iterpool of Saskatchewan, Can., Miss Marjorey Clarke of Cheshire, England, and Mrs. Charles Goodwin of Coral Gables, Fla.; and a brother, Bert Clarke of Cheshire, England.

The service and interment were at the convenience of the family under the direction of the Kimble Funeral Home.

Mrs. Louise Schenck, 42, of 241 Academy Street, Hightstown, died on February 9 in Princeton Hospital. She was the wife of Roland Schenck.

Also surviving are a daughter, Mrs. Ella May Johnson of St. Augustine, Fla.; two sisters, Mrs. Essie Brown of Trenton and Mrs. Rose L. Lopez of Perrineville, and a brother, Le Roy Henderson of Jamesburg.

The service was held at the St. James AME Church, Hightstown, the Rev. A. Aberbert officiating. Interment was in Cedar Hill Cemetery.

Mrs. Margaret C. Perrine, 61, of Nortgate Apartments, Cranbury, was fatally stricken with a heart attack on February 12 at the home of her son, Alfred J. Perrine, in Cranbury. She was the widow of Alfred R. Perrine.

Born in Windsor Township, Mrs. Perrine was a lifelong resident of the area. She was a member of Dutch Neck Presbyterian Church, and for five years, until 1966, was associated with the Princeton Homemakers' Association.

Also surviving are two other sons, Stanley of Cranbury and Donald C. of Princeton Junction, and seven grandchildren.

The service was held at the A. S. Cole Funeral Home, Cranbury, the Rev. James S. Weaver, pastor of the Dutch Neck Presbyterian Church, officiating. Interment was in Dutch Neck Cemetery.

Mrs. Kate B. Stark, 88, of Lawrenceville, died on February 11 in Princeton Hospital after a brief illness.

A native of Nesbitt, Miss., she was a former resident of Walnut Hill Plantation of Bunkie, La.; Gulfport, Miss., and Pompano Beach, Fla.

Surviving are two daughters Mrs Curtiss S. Hitchcock of Lawrenceville, with whom she lived, and Miss Frances B. Stark of New York City, a son, Meredith O. Stark of Lexington, Miss.; and seven grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

The service was held at All Saints' Chapel of Trinity Episcopal Parish, Canon Robert R. Spears officiating. Interment was in the parish cemetery. Contributions may be made to the Memorial Fund of Trinity Parish.

RESTORED WEST END COLONIAL

Before a practical and tasteful restoration job was done on this big old Colonial its outstanding feature was more than 1½ lovely acres in a prime area. Now the house lives up to its grounds.

The entrance hall opens on a pretty, sunny living room with attached screened porch and gives a tempting glimpse of the big handsome dining room and the spacious, secluded, landscaped terrace which adjoins it. An attractive paneled library, separte guest suite, mud room, laundry room, powder room and superb big kitchen with sufficient cabinet and work space for any housewife round out the first floor.

The second floor consists of a large master suite with fireplace and dressing room, 4 other bedrooms (one would make a perfect playroom) and 2 more baths. On the third floor are two finished rooms, bath and roomy attic. All in all, inside and out, it's a house to live in happily ever after. $89,000

EXCLUSIVES!

LIVING HAPPILY EVER AFTER IS YOUR JOB: but an auspicious beginning might be to let us find the perfect house for your large, active family. Built less than three years ago of brick and cedar shakes, this carefully thought-out Township Colonial has everything from two living rooms (one handsomely panelled, both with fireplaces) to 3½ baths. Entrance hall, formal living room and dining room are all carpeted in a lush beige tweed; the kitchen is well-equipped and has ample breakfast space overlooking a shaded screened porch. Upstairs, there are 3 bedrooms (including a huge master) to go with all those baths. Full dry cellar and two car garage. Walking distance to all schools. Available June 15. $55,000

'FIRST HOUSE' HUNTERS CAN BE CHOOSERS: but we know the problems they have to face in the Princeton community. We'd suggest they have a look at this fine new listing in nearby Hopewell Township. Large living room with fireplace, dining room opening to screened porch, kitchen with dishwasher, well oven and counter top stove. Panelled playroom with adjoining lavatory, 3 bedrooms and 2 full baths. Large cellar and two car garage. Long country views from every window. Convenient to ETS, Western Electric and Socony Mobil. Offered for the first time at $28,500

SEE WHAT $34,500 CAN BUY IN PRINCETON TOWNSHIP: Entrance hall big enough to greet your guests in, living room with fireplace, plant window and door to covered porch, separate dining room, good, workable kitchen. Playroom, laundry and lavatory on lower level. 3 bedrooms and 2 full baths. Cellar and garage. Attractively landscaped and fenced grounds with many big trees.

EXCLUSIVES!

AN UNEXPECTED EXTRA ROOM: walled with glass with its dark-beamed ceiling left open to the slope of the roof sets this one story Borough house apart from others like it. A slate floored foyer opens to living room with fireplace and separate dining room. Bright, sunny kitchen with comfortable breakfast area is just one step down and laundry and there are 3 bedrooms and 2 baths in a quiet wing all their own. All this besides that wonderful "garden room" on an easily maintained quarter acre. $39,500

NEARLY THREE ACRES ON CHERRY VALLEY ROAD: just over the Princeton Township line in one of the most attractive sections of our nearby countryside. Would make an admirable building site for any sort of house. $12,500

ONE OF PRINCETON'S MOST ADMIRED COUNTRY PLACES: twenty-five acres on the wooded banks of Stony Brook in a completely protected area are the setting for this comfortable manor house, its lovant cottage and gardens. Several large rooms for entertaining. 5 bedrooms and 3½ baths. 5 fireplaces. None other like it. Asking $185,000

INTOWN APARTMENT: Large living-dining room, kitchen, two bedrooms and bath. Second floor. Parking. $125 per month unfurnished.

For Sale

- 300 Acres
- Beautifut 12-Room Colonial
- Automated Feed Lot for 900 Steers

This scenic, seventeeth century, Hunterdon County farm is bordered by one stream, and crossed by two others. On it are three houses and a garage apartment, several barns, numerous outbuildings, and frontage (totalling 6,956 ft.) on 3 roads.

The 12-room main house, dating from before the year 1690, has an attractive flagstone patio and is an excellent example of tasteful, painstaking restoration, coupled with modern comforts and convenience.

An up-to-the-minute beef-fattening facility incorporates 3 glass-lined steel silos and an automatic feeding system that makes it possible for a manager and one helper to run the entire farm.

HOUSE HUNTING?

WOODED . . . against an almost rural background of lofty trees, this long, low white house enjoys as lovely a setting as any in the Township. 4 bedrooms, 2 baths. All rooms on one floor. Big paneled recreation room, and powder room, in basement. Living room (15 x 27) with fireplace, 14 x 16 dining room, modern kitchen with dishwasher and disposal, sunroom and a beautiful flagstoned patio. Master bedroom has two over-sized, walk-in closets with built-in drawers and shelves, and the rest of the closets are many and commodious. This is a custom-built home, with plaster walls, and those other enviable details which Harold Pearson always put into his houses. (sole agent) $69,500

GROWING FAMILY? . . . in a very pleasant neighboring community, here is a large house (red shingles with white shutters and trim) that has 3 bedrooms, 2 baths on the ground floor, and a fully insulated second floor, with plumbing and heating ducts installed, which can easily be finished into 2 more bedrooms and bath when needed. At present, the house now has entry hall, carpeted living room and dining area, large modern kitchen with breakfast space, and family room with fireplace. Very liberal terms available to qualified buyer.
(Sole agent) $31,000

NINE BEDROOMS . . . just outside Princeton, an old Victorian house with lofty shade trees and more than an acre of land, has been transformed into a wonderful place to live. The old part of the house has center hall, living room and dining room, breakfast room and kitchen. Second floor: 3 bedrooms and bath. Third floor: 2 bedrooms and bath. The new part, built in 1957, has central air-conditioning, and provides a huge paneled family room, master bedroom with dressing room and bath, a second bedroom and bath. Upstairs: sitting room, 2 more bedrooms, 1 bath and laundry room. (sole agent) $55,000

TOWN HOUSE . . . right on Stockton Street, in the Borough, it has a wide entrance hall, living room, dining room with fireplace, library, maid's room and half bath, and a very up-to-date kitchen. Upstairs: sitting room with fireplace (this could also be a bedroom), 3 bedrooms, 2 baths. Third floor: 4 bedrooms, 1 bath. Outdoors: an inviting garden with flagstone terrace, and many huge old shade trees. This is a Victorian masterpiece, over a century old, which has been restored and decorated in excellent taste. (sole agent) $79,500

RENTALS . . . furnished apartment, Borough, 2 bedrooms. $212

On the lake, Cape Cod with 2 bedrooms, lovely grounds, boat house. $300

Rural, on 30 acres, modern 4 bedroom Colonial. Maid's room & bath. $425

Township, 5 acres, house with 6 bedrooms, 4 baths, swimming pool. $450

Many more fine homes in Princeton and vicinity in every price range.

SNOW TIRES
NEW and USED
Big selection of tires we don't want to carry over for next season.

While getting ready to take our year end tire inventory we uncovered hundreds of tires that we must sell now. We're willing to "deal" on these tires ... discontinued tread designs (brand new tires) ... new car "take-offs" (many matched pairs and sets used less than 100 miles) ... good inspected used tires (some with thousands of miles of tread remaining). We'll have these tires sorted in stacks for easy selection. Come in and pick your tires and name your price! No reasonable offer will be refused. Be here early for best selection.

NO MONEY DOWN
Take months to pay!
All tires mounted FREE!

REGULAR TIRES
ODDS-N-ENDS
Both new and used in most sizes ... but some sizes in limited quantities.

Now's the time to get all your HOME & AUTO SUPPLY needs.

AND MORE EXCLUSIVES!

A HOUSE WITH PAST: This intriguing old brick was once part of a large townhouse built by one of the University's early presidents. Some years ago, it was moved to its present site (a four acre forest in the Northern Township) where it was beautifully settled amongst the towering trees and carefully redone from paint to plumbing. Though not large, the ups and downs of its rambling floor plan give the house a unique charm and a surprising degree of interior privacy. The entrance hall is flanked by a cozy study and living room with fireplace. Opening off the stair hall a sunken dining room overlooks a lovely terrace of old brick. Convenient galley kitchen and powder room complete the ground floor. Upstairs, there are 4 bedrooms (one presently used as a sitting room) and 2 baths. Large detached garage with loft. Useable cellar. With subdivision of a very salable building lot a good possibility, the price of $39,500 seems most reasonable.

A WOODED HILLSIDE WITH A SWEEPING VIEW OF STONY BROOK: What a superb spot for that house you've been planning all these years! We don't believe there's a more beautiful residential site anywhere in Princeton Township. Two acres with long brook frontage. All public utilities on the site. Make your architect a happy man. Asking $40,000

A YARD FULL OF PLAYMATES: will greet your happy offspring the day you move into this congenial young Lawrence Township neighborhood. We can offer you a distinctive two story Colonial with carpeted living and dining rooms, panelled family room with fireplace, super kitchen with breakfast nook, laundry and powder room on the ground floor. Upstairs, 4 bedrooms and 2 baths. Perfect condition throughout. Central air-conditioning. Garage. All on a beautifully landscaped wooded lot. Offered here for the first time at $38,000

Free PRN Prescription Delivery

January, February and March seem to be the months during which more people are sick and more deliveries are required than any other time of the year, ao we think that now is a good time for an explanation of our delivery service.

If you have read our advertising carefully, you will have noticed that the wording has been "free P.R.N. PRESCRIPTION delivery." P.R.N. is from the Latin "pro re nata," or "as the need arises." This is to be taken literally. We will deliver your prescription at any time, but in order to keep our driver and ourselves in some semblance of a sane state of mind, we have had to establish some sort of priority system. It has proven at least workable, if not always ideal.

1. (in order of priority)
   a. Narcotic pain relievers
   b. Antibiotic and anti-nauseant drugs for infants and children.
2. New prescriptions for what we consider acute conditions in adults. (antibiotics, cough syrups, anti-inflammatory drugs, to name a few).
3. New prescriptions for "maintenance" medication. (Thyroid, aids to sleep, "the pill," etc.)
4. Refills of prescriptions. (There is hardly ever a time when a refill is an emergency).
5. Over-the-counter medication. (Cough syrups, rubbing alcohol, aspirin, etc.).
6. Other items (Candy, razor blades, lipsticks, shampoo, facial tissues).
7. Ice cream . . . this is one item we always hesitate to deliver, because it may leave the pharmacy in a solid state and arrive aome time later in a liquid state.

Please anticipate your needs and please be patient when an order for vitamins placed at 9:30 A.M. arrives at 5:00 P.M., but when you need something at the other end of the priority scale, you'll appreciate the "system."
